

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

The chief feature of the war news today was a brilliantly executed raid by British naval forces against the German submarine bases of Zeebrugge and Ostend, on the Belgian coast.

An official statement issued by the British admiralty stated that five obsolete ships laden with concrete, had been run aground and blown up.

This maneuver was undoubtedly carried out with the view to bottling up the harbors but whether vessels were sunk at both places or at only one of them was not made plain by the initial statement given out in London.

The raid was one of the greatest pieces of initiative yet shown and the British admiralty in speaking of the results said it had met with a reasonable measure of success.

The operation was carried out with vim and dash, the auxiliary vessels and obsolete cruisers being protected by men of war. The vessels unquestionably came under the fire or German shore batteries, but the admiralty in its first statement failed to say whether or not the German fire had inflicted any damage or casualties.

There is still an absence of big scale land operations on the western battle front.

The British have again improved and strengthened their positions on both the Picardy and Flanders battlefields, but there have been no decisive developments.

In the Albert sector, at the northern end of the Picardy battle zone, the British were successful in extending their lines, capturing sixty prisoners during the operation.

There was local fighting in the sector of Wytschaete (on the Messines ridge in Belgium) which ended in favor of the British.

There is increased raiding activity along the southern flank of the German salient east of Amiens, which indicates a renewal of infantry operations in that district very soon.

While the big guns are roaring on both battlefields both sides continue to mass troops. The Germans have concentrated large forces in the sectors of Kemmel Ridge (opposite the southern end of the Messines Ridge), north of Baillieu, in the Robecq-La Bassée canal district and along the Somme.

This was the 34th day of the German grand offensive and the 14th day of the Battle of Flanders.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

Ulster county soldiers and sailors and their friends are invited to send photographs and brief biographical sketches of the men from this county who are in the service for publication in The Freeman. All photographs will be returned unharmed.

PRIVATE MICHAEL MCNULTY.
Camp Upton, L. I. Home address, 52 Sycamore street, this city.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weiner of 132 Second avenue have received word from their son, William of his safe arrival overseas.

Miss Katherine Davis of No. 28 Hoffman street has received word from her brother, Claude Davis, of Co. L, 23rd Engineers, of his safe arrival in France.

Mrs. Raymond E. Shufeldt of 27 Cedar street has received word of the safe arrival of Private Raymond E. Shufeldt of Co. A, 306th Infantry, somewhere in France.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Adams have received word from their son, Corporal Albert Adams, Jr., Co. K, 23rd U. S. Engineers, of his safe arrival "somewhere in France."

Sergeants Martin F. Netter and Silas T. Beatty, graduates of the officers training school, are on a fifteen days' furlough, awaiting their commissions from the war department.

Mrs. John Herrick of 31 Jarrold street, has received word from her son, Francis J. Mager, of his safe arrival "somewhere in France." He is a member of Company A, 306th Infantry, which left Camp Upton recently.

Henry Schroeder, Michael Lawless, Percy Becker and Edwin B. Schoonmaker, stationed at Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I., have arrived safely overseas. Word of their reaching the war zone was received by their folks in Saugerties Monday.

Corporal Calvin C. Winne, who has been seriously ill at the base hospital at Camp Greene, North Carolina, has recovered and is spending a 15 days' furlough at his home on Washington avenue. Upon his return to service, he will report at Camp Merritt, overseas camp, in New Jersey.

Lieutenant Dr. Frederick Snyder of Clinton avenue, who is a member of the Medical Corps of the 107th U. S. Infantry, left town Monday afternoon for Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, South Carolina, which he left on Friday to attend the funeral of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ezra Palon. He had expected to spend a ten days' leave of absence in town but returned in response to a telegram from Camp Wadsworth officials.

GERMAN ULTIMATUM SENT TO HOLLAND

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, April 23.—Germany has followed up her war threats against Holland by forwarding an ultimatum to The Hague, according to an article in the Daily News today written by the lobby (Parliamentary) correspondent. It is based upon "reports in diplomatic circles."

The British foreign office is following the situation very closely and it is evident now that the relations between Germany and Holland are more greatly strained than ever before.

Germany is basing her threats upon two grounds:

1.—That Holland showed partiality towards the Allies in returning a favorable answer to England's protest against allowing sand and gravel from Germany to be shipped into Belgium through Dutch canal routes.

2.—That Holland violated the principle of neutrality in allowing the Allies to take over her mercantile fleet.

(The famous "sand and gravel dispute" occurred last year when England protested on the ground that Germany was using the materials in the construction of defensive works in Belgium and France. Germany used the canal route in order to relieve railway traffic for troops and ammunition movements.)

Germany is striving hard for finding a pretext to get Holland embroiled on one side or the other, despite the fact that the German military authorities have removed from the Dutch frontier many of the troops that had been massed there.

QUAKERS SERVE THEIR COUNTRY

Not to be Compared With "Conscientious Objectors" Who Become Such Only When They Hope to Dodge Danger.

74 Montgomery St., Poughkeepsie, N. Y., April 19th, 1918.

Editor Freeman, Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
A recent editorial of your valued paper entitled, "The Churches and the War," was sent me by the pastor of our meeting at Clintondale. That whole section contains many Quakers, many of whom have seen the editorial and feel that your calling us unfavorably into contrast with our Methodist and Catholic fellow Christians is not deserved. Our record for two hundred and fifty years for devoted and patriotic service at great personal cost in self-sacrifice is unsurpassed by any people. This is a matter of history and can be easily ascertained by anyone who wants to be fair to us.

In answer to the editorial which calls us "of the conscientious slacker variety" I am sending you under another cover a copy of the Congregationalist, the leading paper of that great connection, containing an article that so directly covers my contention that I send it to you. The article quotes in full the official pronouncement of our society at its last great national gathering, with comments which show plainly that informed minds do not think we are "of the slacker variety." Our principles indeed, based upon our view of the teachings of Jesus, lead many of us to the position that we had rather be killed than to kill anybody. But our positive position is to do everything in our power to uphold our government and give aid to our bleeding allies. We have therefore, originated our American Friends' Service Committee, which, working with the British Friends' Ambulance Corps, are doing arduous, costly service in the several fields of battle, in the reconstruction of territories ruined by the war. Our work and our workers are known to the governments of France and Belgium and England. Our plans in many particulars have furnished the basis of the Red Cross operations. We have done much to put heart into those who had almost lost heart. Our plans contemplate this work, not only for the duration of the war, but already projects a view of service for a generation ahead.

As a public man we feel that this work of ours should be well known to you. It is not done in a corner. Papers like the New York Times, Tribune, and especially the Nation, to say nothing of religious publications like the Congregationalist, have all noted our work, spoken of it in the highest terms and consider us positively loyal. Your paper is read by many, and in lower Ulster the entire population almost, that is of American stock, are or Quaker lineage or affiliation. I am sure that your further thought will lead you to think better of us, more in accord with the facts, and that you will again mention us in your paper to give us credit for our proved loyalty and public service. I am writing our Philadelphia office asking them to send to you direct some of our literature telling of certain phases of our work abroad. Very truly yours,

ALBERT G. SHEPARD.

Highland, N. Y., R. D. 4, April 11, 1918.

Editor Freeman:

"The Churches and the War," shows that does not understand the attitude of the sect, called Quakers. It would be well for thee to inform thyself and correct that article. Does thee know how many are at the front in reconstruction work in France? In Red Cross work and how many are taking and working for "Liberty Bonds?" There has been subscribers from Kingston to Newburgh and Mohawk and Poughkeepsie in Quaker families. These must know E. Gilderleeve and A. Heaton and Lames of Poughkeepsie, who have sons in service, and our own pastor, J. D. Piper, in Clintondale, head of the Red Cross work; the Smiths, also of Mohawk. These have raised my fighting spirit. For this day I am one of a committee to raise bonds at this end of the town. I have one boy I have been a mother too since a baby, at the front in France since the beginning of the war. Another, who I have mothered, went a few weeks ago. Be kind enough to inform thyself, and correct that article.

A RED CROSS WORKER AND FOOD SAVER: A QUAKER WHO IS ARMED TO COMBAT WITH EVIL AND INJUSTICE.

FIND MALDEN'S MAN'S BOY.

Sylvester Schultz, Barge Captain, Loses Life in Hudson River.

The body of Sylvester Schultz, 65 years old, captain of the ice barge M. W. Seaman, who has been missing since April 14, was found in the Hudson river just below Athens Monday afternoon. Schultz was last seen Sunday when he left his home in Malden at about 2 o'clock in the afternoon in a rowboat to return to Athens.

Wiedemann is Appointed.

Theodore Wiedemann has been appointed a member of the city engineering department filling the position occupied by Harry T. Sweeney, who was recently granted a leave of absence to take up work in the war insurance department of the government at Washington, D. C. Mr. Wiedemann was a former probation officer under Recorder Lang.

BORDENS REFUSE TO PAY MAY PRICES

At the meeting of the Federal Milk Commission on Monday April 22nd notice was read showing that the Bordens Farm Products and Condensed Milk Companies together with a few other smaller dealers had previously served notice that they would not bind themselves to pay the prices fixed by the commission for May. This was the first intimation the League had received that such notice had been served.

The Bordens Companies claim the reason for this repudiation of the findings of the commission is caused by the serious market condition which makes it impossible for them to continue to pay the Commission's prices. It is difficult to accept this explanation, however, when by the conditions of agreement under which the Commission sets the prices all market conditions including surplus must be taken into consideration.

It looks now as if there would be serious trouble with certain of the dealers May 1st. The Dairyman's League has wished to avoid trouble because the country is at war and because market conditions are bad. For this reason every effort has been made to allow the Federal Milk Commission to fix prices. The League went so far as to accept the price set by the commission for April milk which is below the cost of production. It is willing to accept the Commission's prices for May but, of course, cannot do so if the dealers will not also.

As the situation now stands responsibility for trouble rests squarely on the shoulders of certain dealers, and if the League is obliged to withhold the milk from any of the dealers May 1st, it is likely to have the sympathy of the Federal Food Administration which appointed the Federal Milk Commission for this district.

The milk situation will be the chief topic of discussion at every one of the nine hundred meetings of League Branches to be held this week Saturday, and it is expected that definite action will be taken at these meetings.

D. OF A. WILL BE GLAD TO HAVE HELP

The Daughters of America are still working on the hospital garments at the Red Cross rooms each Wednesday evening. There is much work to be done and they will be glad to have anyone interested in this kind of help for the soldiers to meet with them on any Wednesday evening. Come prepared to do sewing either by machine or hand.

The Weasel Got Away.

Fred Balzer, engineer on the tug Earl, was the proud owner of a six-year-old chicken the other day, until the chicken coop on Second avenue was visited by a weasel. The weasel killed all but two of the chicks, and in turn got caught in a steel trap. While making preparations to plunge the trap in water and drown Mr. Weasel he is some manner got away. Engineer Balzer is living in hopes that he will have better luck next time in catching and killing the weasel.

A Novel Flag Pole.

Recently James F. Dwyer, the well known shipbuilder and business man down town, decided he wanted a flag pole in front of his residence on Broadway. He had one of the pine trees stripped of its limbs and bark and cut down to the required height and later it was painted snow white by Patrick Henderson, the local steeplejack, and now makes a first-class flag pole.

BRITISH TRY TO BOTTLE UP SUBMARINE BASES

Raid Ostend and Zeebrugge and Sink Concrete Laden Ships in the Harbor Mouth, Meeting With "Reasonable Success."

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, April 23.—The German submarine bases of Ostend and Zeebrugge, on the Belgian coast, were raided by British naval forces this morning, the admiralty announced.

The British forces consisted of auxiliary vessels and six obsolete cruisers.

Five of the obsolete vessels were filled with concrete and were run aground and blown up to block the harbors.

The raid met with "a reasonable measure of success," the official statement said.

The complete details were not available when this despatch was written, but the admiralty announced that a further report would be made when the returning ships arrive at their base.

The raiding vessels were protected by covering ships.

(By covering ships the admiralty evidently meant first time men of war.)

The British focus against the Belgian coast was the first attempt so far as publicly known, to bottle up the submarine bases at Zeebrugge and Ostend.

The orders for the destruction of the concrete filled ships were carried out with dash and brilliancy.

SCHIRICK'S NAME ON CASUALTY LIST

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 23.—The names of forty-three American soldiers appeared in the over night casualty list made public by the war department today. Only two were killed in action. One died from wounds, four died from disease, nine were wounded severely and twenty-seven were wounded slightly. It was obvious that this list did not contain the names of men engaged in the Seicheprey fighting.

Killed in action—Private Frank G. Kane

Private Daniel L. McCaffigan

Died of wounds—Private William D. McCall

Died of disease—Cook Homer Byrbe, pneumonia.

HEROIC DEATH OF LIEUT. DAVID

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 23.—Nighttime hand to hand with a horde of Hun on the Picardy battlefield, Lieut. John David accounted for seven of them with his pistol and then fought over their bodies with his empty rifle until finally he was struck down by a Boche from behind.

The account of David's heroic death was contained in a recent letter from Lieut. Daniel C. Roper, Jr., to his father, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, David's father, Dr. J. H. David, of Dublin, S. C., an old friend of the commissioner and to him Roper sent the letter. This afternoon Commissioner Roper received a reply from Dr. David in which he said:

"My dear and only boy's death was indeed glorious, and I feel quite sure that if he had the choosing of the way that he was to go, this would have been his choice."

PERSHING PLACES LOSS BELOW 200

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, April 23.—The American soldiers in the battle of Seicheprey covered themselves with glory. This is officially announced by General Pershing in his preliminary report now at the war department. But the details of the report still are withheld by Secretary of War Baker. He is very much exercised over the fact that various countering figures of losses have been published and today ordered an investigation to determine who was responsible for announcing that General Pershing had made any report to the department. The secretary's position is that details of any engagement must come direct from General Pershing's headquarters in France as he alone can judge what can and what cannot be published.

However, it is known that in his report General Pershing placed the losses of the Americans engaged at "less than 200," while the losses of the German shock troops who attacked were more than 300. How many of the American casualties are covered in the "missing" list is not yet known. General Pershing, it is understood, has promised a more complete report which will cover this point later on.

It is understood here that the units engaged were regulars. They were supported by National Guard organizations and the entire outfit engaged is reported to have outfought and outlasted the German shock troops, picked men selected only after months of special training for raid work. In his preliminary report General Pershing is understood to have emphasized that the German attack was not in the nature of a raid but undertaken to break a salient between the American and the French sectors and that the supporting columns of the Germans were laden with outreaching tools to dig themselves in. The Americans were outnumbered three to one but stuck to their positions until help came, the wounded serving their guns as long as their strength lasted.

Martial Law Bill Dead.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, April 23.—The Chamberlain bill providing court martial instead of civil court trial for all accused of sedition, has been killed by the opposition of President Wilson. Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military affairs committee, made this admission: "The senate this afternoon."

SCHIRICK WOUNDED OVER IN FRANCE

His Parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Schirick of Downs Street, Receive Word to That Effect—Wound Slight States Report.

Private George Schirick has been slightly wounded while in action in France on Sunday, April 14, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Schirick of No. 178 Downs street, Monday evening from Washington, D. C.

Private Schirick, who is a brother of City Judge Schirick, is a member of Company A, 102nd Regiment of Infantry, a Connecticut regiment. As far as known he is the first Kingston boy to be wounded at the battle front in France. He is a graduate of School No. 6 and attended Kingston Academy where he became noted in athletics and was captain of the K. A. football team. He later took up a course in the Eastman business school in Poughkeepsie.

While in the employ of Armour & Company at Stamford, Conn., he enlisted in the service during the Mexican trouble and served five months on the Mexican border. When the call came for volunteers in the war against Germany he enlisted and arrived in France on September 1 of last year.

The telegram from the war department gave no particulars simply stating that he was slightly wounded.

MANY CASES OF MEASLES IN CITY

The board of health are receiving a number of reports of cases of measles in the city, and since the first of the year about seventy-five cases have been reported. At the last meeting of the health board Dr. E. E. Norwood, who is a member of the board, stated that in his opinion it was about time for an epidemic of measles in Kingston as the city had not been visited with an epidemic in thirteen years. Commissioner Norwood's prediction seems to be coming true. Every effort is being made to prevent the spread of the disease.

Too Much Music.

Music is a cheery thing and all right in its place but 1:10 o'clock in the morning is no time to beat a bass drum. So thought officer Andy Walker and he warned young Winkowsky, a member of the visiting Poughkeepsie drum corps to stop beating the drum on Broadway near Railroad avenue. The young man failed to heed the officer's warning and morning he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and owing to the fact that it was his first offense Judge Schirick was lenient and discharged him with a warning.

DeWitt Agency Sold Monday.

McDonald DeWitt, administrator of the estate of David M. DeWitt, the late insurance agent, Monday morning sold the good will and agency business formerly carried on by Mr. DeWitt to the well known agency of DeWitt, Tremper, Osterbohn, Inc., at 258 Fair street. All endorsements and renewals will be issued by the new agents, where the numerous patrons of David M. DeWitt will receive courteous, prompt and efficient attention.

BATTLE SCENES ON THE SOMME

Battle pictures of the Somme, which were made by the British Government, are being displayed in Ulster county this week in connection with the Liberty Loan drive, and will be shown at the high school auditorium on Wednesday and Saturday nights.

The pictures are the most interesting and comprehensive war pictures which have been shown anywhere and no body can afford to miss them. No admission is charged. On Wednesday evening when the pictures are shown at the auditorium an address will be made by the Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, pastor of St. James's M. E. Church, and on Saturday night Judge Hochstadt will speak.

The pictures will be shown other nights during the week as follows: Monday—Highland. Tuesday—New Paltz. Thursday—Saugerties. Friday—Ellenville.

PLEA FOR MARKET AND CANNERY

Editor Kingston Freeman.

The farmers have been anxiously watching your paper for news concerning a public market for Kingston. It is a matter which should receive immediate attention. The farmers are being continually urged to plant more, raise more, feed the world and no place to sell vegetables after growing them. There are farmers whose wives and daughters would gladly assist in grace to readily sell them. What we need and want is a market where farm produce can be sold without a house to house canvass as got this market then a canning factory where the market could use all surplus stock, thus enabling them to buy all the farmer can produce; if not this market then a canning factory where all produce can be sold. The farmers want to be patriotic and help in every way doing "their bit." But they must have some place to dispose of what they raise if they are expected to produce it, thus enabling them to get the required funds to run the farms. Farmers can no more produce crops without money than politicians can run for office without money. There is no time to be wasted, as it is time right now to plant, and I hope the people will wake up immediately to the situation and do something more than merely talk.

I beg of the good people and the "money people" do something for the farmer, thus encouraging them to "feed the world." Please give this article a corner in your valuable paper.

What Joseph Drake Does

PEOPLE often inquire what Joseph Drake does in New York, where he has been for the past six years, and how is he getting along?

He does business at No. 116 Nassau Street and his telephone is Beekman 2319 and his business is growing larger and larger.

His business is Stationery—anything which is engraved, lithographed or printed.

He submits suggestions for letterheads, cards, announcements, checks, et cetera; that is, he prepares drawings for your consideration and approval.

Distinctive trademarks with a commercial value for the man in business, or a dainty monogram in complementary colors or contrasting tints for milady, or a simple dignified address die, each is to be found among his offerings.

For the man with a library—bookplates, engraved on steel, copper, wood, or photo-gravure. As an example in one medium—wood—Mr. Drake's engravings are executed by Mr. John W. Evans, the most distinguished wood engraver in America.

Many people paying a good price for less than the best by far, in the departments of engraving, printing, stationery are forced to continue to be less than satisfied because they are not in touch with someone properly equipped to supply their needs, and with the personal interest to cater to their preferences.

Why not get in touch with Mr. Drake, a stationery specialist, for the best engraving you can purchase, the best lithographing obtainable, and the best printing to be had?

Wedding invitations and announcements, church, train, at-home and visiting cards, graduation invitations, menu and place cards, greeting cards, baby cards, mourning cards and stationery, correspondence cards and papers, crests and coats-of-arms, professional and commercial announcements, checks, drafts, certificates and diplomas are all part of his regular day's work.

In the typographical department may be mentioned announcements, bills, blotters, booklets, brochures, calendars, catalogs, dance orders, folders, legal backs and forms, law printing, programs and statements.

Patrons who know the best are an asset of the highest type, and it is a satisfaction to mention a growing clientele of the socially and professionally elect.

Specimens are for the asking. Comparisons invited.

DATA RELATIVE TO WAR CHEST

Report of Commission Sent to Rome and Utica, N. Y., to Investigate Their Respective War Chest Associations.

At the suggestions of Mayor Canfield, Joseph M. Herbert, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and F. R. Powley, president of the Central Young Men's Christian Association, we went to Utica and Rome for the purpose of questioning people in all walks of life concerning their War Chest campaigns and organizations.

It was our opportunity to go into considerable detail with secretaries of Chambers of Commerce, secretaries of Young Men's Christian Associations, professional men, bankers, and employees of various industrial corporations. Much to our surprise the answer was unanimously that the War Chest is the best method of handling war philanthropies up to the present moment. In fact this sentiment was so strongly in favor of the War Chest idea that we are somewhat embarrassed in making this report lest we be accused of not trying to secure adverse opinion or even trying to interject our own personal conclusions. We wish to assure you, however, that we went to these two cities with open minds and did our best to secure an expression from both cities. With this introduction we will go into the detail of information which we received.

E. M. Heermans got up a very comprehensive questionnaire and it was by means of this that we were able to secure a very good insight concerning the War Chest proposition. Utica with a population of about 85,000 held a War Chest Campaign ending February 17, 1918. In July, 1917, one or two citizens had the feeling that a War Chest Fund was a very efficient way of taking care of war philanthropies of Utica. When they expressed this feeling it was met with a general opposition. In fact the opinion was so strong against it that the matter was dropped for that time. However, different organizations, such as the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, women's organizations and other clubs began to inquire why there was no War Chest campaign for Utica. Public opinion began to ripen and by February sentiment was so strong that the very leaders who opposed the idea in July swung into line and the War Chest campaign was held. It was decided to ask Utica for $750,000 and at the end of the seventh day $1,075,000 had been secured. 33,000 people subscribed to this fund which is a ratio of about two to the family inasmuch as there are 16,000 homes. Out of these 33,000—23,000 are employees of the various factories and 10,000 are engaged in all the other lines of commercial activities which make up a large city. The per-capita for the city was $12.00. The campaign cost $7,195.00 which money was paid out of the general fund. Ten men subscribed $100 apiece to cover the cost of the noon day luncheons for the workers. These subscriptions are for one year only, although the War Chest organization is incorporated for the duration of the war.

Utica has not been at the work long enough to determine whether there will be any great falling off of subscriptions. It is the concern of the treasurer, F. G. Rousseau, who is vice-president of the Onondaga County Trust Company, of how to take care of subscribers who change from one factory to another rather than the falling off of payments. Mr. Rousseau is of the belief that the subscribers are honorable enough to continue their payments.

Rome with a population of 25,000 which closely approximates the population of our own city organized their campaign during the week of November 24, 1917. They decided to ask for $300,000 and at the end of the week found that $246,000 had been pledged. At the end of the first month $143,000 had been collected, and at the close of business on March 20, 1918, which was four months after the campaign, their total receipts amounted to $184,769, or about 50% of the sum total. This money has come in without any personal solicitation, or notices of any kind sent to the subscriber or placed in the paper for his information.

There are 8,700 subscribers to the Rome Fund, which again is in the ratio of two members of each family, as there are approximately 4,500 homes in the city. Rome has about 8,800 employees in their various factories and of this number 5,700 subscribed to the War Chest Fund. The per-capita subscription to the Rome Fund is $16.00. The cost of the campaign was about $2,400 which was paid out of the general receipts. The town workers, however, paid for their own luncheons.

It is costing Rome about $35.00 per week to take care of the clerical work. The interest on the money on hand is more than taking care of the overhead expenses. New subscribers coming in from time to time are in sufficient number, it is believed, to offset any delinquencies. The men in charge of the Rome Fund did not seem to be at all exercised over delinquencies. They, like Utica, felt that the people had honor enough to be willing to meet their obligations. A great many of the mills had 100% in the War Chest Fund, and these same mills are showing a 100% in the present Liberty Loan Drive. The campaign for Rome did not extend outside of the city proper. In fact Utica was practically confined to the city itself. Utica went out to a few suburban villages, but they are practically in the city itself.

Thus have we tried to convey to you the information which we received in these two cities, and give it to you in an impartial way. In closing, therefore, Mr. Heermans and I wish to express our own personal conclusions.

Conclusion by Mr. Heermans. Both Mr. Thornberry and I fully agree as to the facts of our findings, in a painstaking and impartial investigation in Rome and Utica, as to the merits of the War Chest plans, so far as they have been tried out in these two cities. Summed up, these facts show an overwhelming satisfaction with the plans in each city, among all classes of persons. We were particularly to raise every objection we had heard about, both here and elsewhere, and pointedly presented these objections. The fact remains that a War Chest is an experiment anywhere, just as many of the war problems themselves are experiments, and none of the gentlemen who now endorse the plan enthusiastically, are able to say definitely that the War Chest will be an ultimate success, because, obviously, it has not had time enough to run. It is either a complete success or a partial failure. Syracuse presents the longest trial of the plan, nine months. As I have repeatedly stated heretofore, and as I stated when I first brought up the War Chest idea last December with the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and as I presented it in detail to Mr. Cockendall, like every new thing, it has its redeeming qualities and its drawbacks. Furthermore, I am convinced that the problem has to be worked out in each community, according to the public conditions and contingencies in that community. One point is impressive to me—in Utica, Corning, Fall River, Mass., and other places, there was strong opposition to the plan when first suggested, among men of influence and standing in these communities, and I am reliably informed this opposition was removed when the full plan was better understood. Whatever is decided upon in Kingston, Mr. Thornberry and I quite agree that the War Chest system of campaign, campaign giving, or solicitation, has furnished a fine example of a modern system for getting the greatest number to give, and that it has merit worthy of being followed in any money-raising, whether it be put under the so-called War Chest fund plan or not.

Conclusion by Mr. Thornberry.

It has been our growing conviction, based upon a careful study of each succeeding campaign which has come to Kingston, that a considerable number of our citizens are not meeting the opportunity which is theirs from time to time. When approached for a subscription to a particular fund their answer is "I have already given." In the case of giving, as an illustration in a certain mill in Rome every employee but one had subscribed during the War Chest campaign. This individual was amply able to give something of his means to the fund but for some reason refused to do so. One morning the employee of this particular factory refused to go to work until the one individual had made his contribution. When it was thus put up to him he saw the light and added his mite to the rest.

The War Chest idea affords people of moderate income to make a larger subscription than they otherwise could give to any number of separate funds. This is made possible by the weekly or monthly installment plan. As an illustration of this I am reminded of the conversation I had with a woman in the street car in Utica. She was over 60 years of age, an employee of one of the Utica mills and engaging her in conversation she said "I am giving 25 cents a week to the War Chest Fund and am doing so very cheerfully for I realize the need of this work and find that 25 cents a week from my pay envelope is not causing me any inconvenience. Enthusiasm and spirit of patriotism are kept alive in the subscribers by the constant reminders on their trip to a definite place to pay their subscription or the memorandum which is handed to them by the factory manager that so much money has been deducted from their pay for the War Chest Fund. In fact a genuine interest in all things pertaining to the war seems to be increased through the War Chest idea. This is well illustrated by the fact that I received from P. C. Thomas, general chairman of the War Chest campaign and secretary-treasurer of the Rome Manufacturing Co., as follows:

Rome, N. Y., April 18, 1918. To Kingston Chamber of Commerce: War Chest plan proves popular with all mill employees, 95 77-100 per cent of all mill employees enrolled. They are glad of the opportunity to thus help relief work, as they otherwise could not. For the rest of the war why not save Kingston the distraction of more or less haphazard separate efforts each year, save the committee nerve racking work, and absolutely no further solicitation. Give everybody in Kingston a chance for intelligent estimate of giving capacity, deprive financial slackers of camouflage excuses, guard against fake war relief schemes, and make fair distributions to deserving causes, and make many lines effective in war work that were formerly quiet. Central idea of certain stated monthly amounts for duration of the war by everyone who can afford to give at all means far larger amount of funds, more comprehensive, intelligent, and more giving. We, the bureau committee represents all elements of population. Our subscribers are 40 per cent of population of the whole city. Rome is enthusiastic. Kingston cannot help being.

P. C. THOMAS, General Chairman War Chest Campaign.

We are fully convinced that in the millions of collections there will be no greater falling off than in any other campaign. Human nature is about the same in its conception of its obligations and, while you will always find some who are not trustworthy and dishonest, the greater percentage of the faithful are the honor in their obligations that they have to be recognized rather than the other factor. Any campaign, be it what it may, will always have a certain amount of shrinkage. This shrinkage is just as problematical in the field as in another and has to be dealt with in every case. After nine months of experience Syracuse says that their collections have reached 86 per cent of their subscriptions, without any statement from collectors sent to subscribers. Practically all of the few delinquents are the small subscribers who have moved away, enlisted or died. This experience will hold true in any fund whatsoever.

We are frank to state that at the beginning we were not in favor of a War Chest Fund. Since our visit to Rome and Utica we are now thor-

Notable Sayings.

In William Dean Howells' novel, "The Quality of Mercy" the dying and repentant defaulter Northwick exclaims "That's good!" as the hand-clasp is placed upon his wrists. "Time flies! Bid Clifford come to me!" orders Judge Jaffrey Pynchon, in "The House of Seven Gables," taking from his vest pocket the watch which he was never to replace.

TWIN BATTLE IS NOW BREWING

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, April 23.—Increasing raiding and artillery activity along the Somme and Ancre rivers and at various points north and south of the Lys river indicated today that a twin battle was brewing and that it would break out in all its fury, perhaps simultaneously on both the Picardy and Flanders front.

The big question is: "Where will the Germans deliver their main strike?" It may fall in the district of the Kemmel Ridge, in Belgium, a position of the highest strategic importance; or it may come in the sector of La Bassée Canal where the Germans tried several times before to break through in the direction of the British railroad position at Bethune. There has been an increase of activity south of the Scarpe river, opposite Arras, but the last German thrust there received a check so decisive that their hope of breaching the British front in that district probably was shattered.

A renewal of the drive on the Picardy front probably will see simultaneous blows struck against both the British and French. The strategy of this would be to widen the Somme salient in front of Amiens. These attacks doubtless would fall against the French between Montdidier and Novon; against the mixed Anglo-French force south of the Somme and against the British in the district around Albert.

Military critics are of the opinion that General Foch has split up the Allied reserve army and that the forces are being held at strategic points from which they can be quickly rushed to the points most seriously threatened by the Germans.

LIGHTLESS NIGHTS ORDER SUSPENDED

Lightless nights, which were instituted last winter in connection with National Fuel Administrator Garfield's order for conserving fuel, have been suspended until the first of September, according to the following telegram received today by County Fuel Administrator John G. Van Etten from State Fuel Administrator Wiggins:

At urgent request Liberty Loan Committee Doctor Garfield has suspended operation lightless night order beginning next Thursday night. On account late hours of lighting brought about by daylight savings bill order will remain suspended until September first when it will again become effective. WIGGIN.

Fewer Sea Eagles Seen.

That the monarch of the air, the sea eagle, has disappeared from California, as well as from the Orkneys and Shetlands, is a well-authenticated fact. The sea eagle is not very uncommon in the West Highlands, and still builds its nest on various hills abutting on the cliffs coast. The sites of the nests are on the edge of some large and well-stocked sheep farms. The birds have always been accused of killing lambs as well as hares and winged game, but the charge would be difficult to substantiate.

Deepest Lake in America.

A lake known as the Great Sunk Lake, is reported to be the deepest lake in this country, and perhaps in the whole world. Located in the valley of the Cascade mountains, about 70 miles north of Jacksonville, Ore., this lake, which is about 15 miles long and four miles wide, is so deep that its depth cannot be measured. It is situated so far below the crest of the mountains that winds cannot reach it, and its surface is like a sheet of glass. It is sometimes called the "lake of mystery."

Stropping Razor on the Hand.

It is claimed that the finest strop for a razor is the fleshy part of one's hand below the little finger. If it is a safety razor blade grasp it between the thumb and first finger of the right hand and strike finger nail and blade at the same time on the fleshy part of the left hand. If you will do it slowly at first the motion becomes automatic. A little vaseline on the cutting edge is said to keep the blades constantly in first-class condition.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Begler-Schaeffer.

George Henry Begler of Connolly and Miss Anna Frances Schaeffer of No. 145 Greenhill avenue, were united in marriage Monday by the Rev. John P. Neumann of St. Peter's church. They were attended by George J. Crowe and Sue Schaeffer. Both young people have a host of friends who wish them a long and prosperous married life.

Bragg-Litts.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Litts, Highland, Thursday evening, April 18, at 8:30 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Bertha Litts, was married to Frederick Bragg, of Lloyd. The bride was becomingly gowned in white silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The honeymoon will be spent in Boston, after which they will make their home in Lloyd.

Twentieth Century Club.

The year's work for the Twentieth Century Club, came to a close on Monday afternoon, when the members met at the home of Mrs. Joan Ryder on Wall street. The roll call was answered by "Impressions of the Year's Work." Mrs. Vrooman had the first paper for the day, on "The Fauna of South America." This was followed by another paper, "The Flora of South America," prepared by Miss Freeman and read by Mrs. Fessenden. Both papers were full of interest and information. The program closed with a reading, "Good-bye, Cape Horn," given by Mrs. Fessenden. Officers for the coming year were then elected as follows: President, Mrs. E. H. Bogart; vice-president, Mrs. John Ryder; secretary, Mrs. Virgil Van Wagoner; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Fessenden. A social hour followed, the club being entertained with victrola selections and the serving of refreshments.

Monday Club Gives Year's Income.

The last 1917-18 meeting of the Monday Club was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kenyon. The members present chose their individual subjects for their papers for next year, under the general topic of "Japan." Plans were formulated for entertaining the City Federation of Women's Clubs in May, regarding which an announcement will be made in The Freeman later. In giving the reports for the year, the treasurer announced that there remained to the credit of the club, $25, and it was unanimously voted to give the same to the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross. This action meant that the club, has this year, given its entire income, $50, for the year, to the Red Cross, having met the expenses of the organization from the small surplus left over from the preceding year. Certainly this is a splendid showing. The business part of the meeting closed with the election of officers for next year, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon; vice-president, Mrs. John Forsyth; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Rodney B. Osterhout. The year's meetings were brought to a close with a pleasant social hour.

STORM TROOPS TO SELL BONDS

New York's Rainbow Division of Trade Workers Ready to Go Over Top.

WILL STRIVE FOR RECORD.

Unique Canvassing Organization Modeled on Military Lines to Make Whirlwind Campaign of Metropolitan Drive.

In New York city the problem of selling the Liberty Bond allotment is largely solved by the efforts of the "Rainbow Division," composed of persons engaged in ninety-eight odd trades and professions in the metropolis. The "Rainbow Division" made a remarkable showing in the Second Loan, selling in the neighborhood of $332,000,000 worth of bonds. It is now ready to start out on the third campaign determined to top that high figure by a goodly margin.

The "Rainbow Division" works under the direction of the Advisory Trades Committee, of which G. de B. Green is chairman and Craig Colgate, vice chairman; Pemberton Beerman, H. S. Bowers, Arthur B. Holden, Cecil D. Landale, M. K. Parker, Miss Virginia Potter, Arthur J. Rosenthal, Walter N. Stillman, Richard H. Swartout, Robert Tinsman, Jacques Weinberger, Beekman Winthrop and Milton S. Harrison.

Some of the industries and trades represented by the "Rainbow Division" are hardware, shipping, chemical, insurance, clothing, oil, metals, building, decorating, silk, woolen, dressmakers, engineering, moving pictures, grocery, fish, legal and medical professions, lumber, stone, transportation, machinery, confectionery, dry goods, printing, furniture, shoes, leather goods, umbrellas and canes, hosiery and underwear. In these trades are more than 1,200,000 workers, and the "Rainbow Division" intends to make an active canvass from the highest official down to the humblest employees in the effort to sell Liberty Bonds.

Organized along the lines of military efficiency, with generals, staffs, infantry, artillery, cavalry and storm troops, the "Rainbow Division" will make a flying start April 6, the day on which the Third Loan opens, bent on outdoing all others in the matter of obtaining subscriptions.

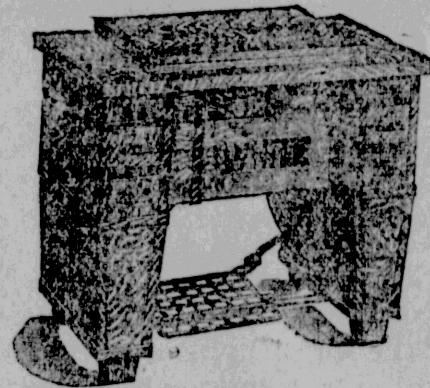

Each trade, profession and industry is represented by a committee composed of persons prominent in their line. The committee will try to get as many subscriptions as possible from

Eliminating Poison Ivy.

The cheapest and most effective method of eliminating poison ivy, according to experts of the United States department of agriculture, is the simple one of rooting up the plants and destroying them. If the poison ivy is in large fields it may be necessary to plow and cultivate the land. Ivy on large trees, stone walls and buildings can be killed by arsenate of soda, at the rate of two pounds to ten gallons of water. Two or three applications are sufficient.

What Joseph Drake Does

PEOPLE often inquire what Joseph Drake does in New York, where he has been for the past six years, and how is he getting along?

He does business at No. 116 Nassau Street and his telephone is Beekman 2319 and his business is growing larger and larger.

His business is Stationery—anything which is engraved, lithographed or printed.

He submits suggestions for letterheads, cards, announcements, checks, et cetera; that is, he prepares drawings for your consideration and approval.

Distinctive trademarks with a commercial value for the man in business, or a dainty monogram in complementary colors or contrasting tints for mailings, or a simple dignified address die, each is to be found among his offerings.

For the man with a library—bookplates, engraved on steel, copper, wood, or photo-gravure. As an example in one medium—wood—Mr. Drake's engravings are executed by Mr. John W. Evans, the most distinguished wood engraver in America.

Many people paying a good price for less than the best by far, in the departments of engraving, printing, stationery are forced to continue to be less than satisfied because they are not in touch with someone properly equipped to supply their needs, and with the personal interest to cater to their preferences.

Why not get in touch with Mr. Drake, a stationery specialist, for the best engraving you can purchase, the best lithographing obtainable, and the best printing to be had?

Wedding invitations and announcements, church, train, at-home and visiting cards, graduation invitations, menu and place cards, greeting cards, baby cards, mourning cards and stationery, correspondence cards and papers, crests and coats-of-arms, professional and commercial announcements, checks, drafts, certificates and diplomas are all part of his regular day's work.

In the typographical department may be mentioned announcements, bills, blotters, booklets, brochures, calendars, catalogs, dance orders, folders, legal backs and forms, law printing, programs and statements.

Patrons who know the best are an asset of the highest type, and it is a satisfaction to mention a growing clientele of the socially and professionally elect.

Specimens are for the asking. Comparisons invited.

DATA RELATIVE TO WAR CHEST

Report of Commission Sent to Rome and Utica, N. Y., to Investigate Their Respective War Chest Associations.

At the suggestions of Mayor Canfield, Joseph M. Herbert, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and F. R. Powley, president of the Central Young Men's Christian Association, we went to Utica and Rome for the purpose of questioning people in all walks of life concerning their War Chest campaigns and organizations.

It was our opportunity to no late considerable detail with secretaries of Chambers of Commerce, secretaries of Young Men's Christian Associations, professional men, bankers and employees of various industrial corporations. Much to our surprise the answer was unanimously that the War Chest is the best method of handling war philanthropies up to the present moment. In fact this sentiment was so strongly in favor of the War Chest idea that we are somewhat embarrassed in making this report lest we be accused of not trying to secure adverse opinion or even trying to interject our own personal conclusions. We wish to assure you, however, that we went to these cities with open minds and did our best to secure an expression from both cities. With this introduction we will go into the detail of information which we received.

E. M. Heermans got up a very comprehensive questionnaire and it was by means of this that we were able to secure a very good insight concerning the War Chest proposition. Utica with a population of about 55,000 held a War Chest Campaign ending February 17, 1918. In July, 1917, one or two citizens had the feeling that a War Chest Fund was a very efficient way of taking care of war philanthropies of Utica. When they expressed this feeling it was met with a general opposition, in fact the opinion was so strong against it that the matter was dropped for that time. However, different organizations, such as the Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club, women's organizations and other clubs began to inquire why there was no War Chest campaign for Utica. Public opinion began to ripen and by February sentiment was so strong that the very leaders who opposed the idea in July swung into line and the War Chest campaign was held. It was decided to ask Utica for $750,000 and at the end of the seventh day $1,075,000 had been secured. 33,000 people subscribed to this fund which is a ratio of about two to the family inasmuch as there are 16,000 homes. Out of these 33,000—23,000 are employees of the various factories and 10,000 are engaged in all the other lines of commercial activities which make up a large city. The per-capita for the city was $12.00. The campaign cost $7,195.00 which money was paid out of the general fund. Ten men subscribed $100 apiece to cover the cost of the noon day luncheons for the workers. These luncheons were one of our best only, although the War Chest organization is incorporated for the duration of the war.

Utica has not been at the work long enough to determine whether there will be any great falling off of subscriptions. It is the concern of the treasurer, F. G. Rousswig, who is vice-president of the Onondaga County Trust Company, of how to take care of subscribers who change from one factory to another rather than the falling off payments. Mr. Rousswig is of the belief that the subscribers are honorable enough to continue their payments.

Rome with a population of 25,000 which closely approximates the population of our own city organized their campaign during the week of November 24, 1917. They decided to ask for $200,000 and at the end of the week found that $346,000 had been pledged. At the end of the first month $143,000 had been collected, and at the close of business on March 20, 1918, which was four months after the campaign, their total receipts amounted to $151,769, or about 50% of the sum total. This money has come in without any personal solicitation or notices of any kind sent to the subscriber or placed in the paper for his information.

There are 5,700 subscribers to the Rome Fund, which again is in the ratio of two members of each family, as there are approximately 4,500 homes in the city. Rome has about 3,800 employees in their various factories and of this number 5,700 subscribed to the War Chest Fund. The per-capita subscription to the Rome Fund is $16.00. The cost of the campaign was about $2,400 which was paid out of the general receipts. The town workers, however, paid for their own luncheons.

It is costing Rome about $25.00 per week to take care of the clerical work. The interest on the money on hand is more than taking care of the over-head expenses. New subscribers are coming in from time to time in sufficient numbers to be believed to offset any delinquencies. The men in charge of the Rome Fund did not seem to be at all exercised over delinquencies. They, like Utica, felt that the people had honor enough to be willing to meet their obligations. A great many of the mills had 100% in the War Chest Fund, and these same mills are showing a 100% in the present Liberty Loan Drive. The campaign for Rome did not extend outside of the city proper. In fact Utica was practically confined to the city itself. Utica went out to a few suburban villages, but they are practically in the city itself.

Thus have we tried to convey to you the information which we received in these two cities, and give it to you in an impartial way. In closing, therefore, Mr. Heermans and I wish to express our own personal conclusions.

Conclusion by Mr. Heermans. Both Mr. Thornberry and I fully agree as to the facts of our findings, in a painstaking and impartial investigation in Rome and Utica, as to the merits of the War Chest plans, so far as they have been tried out in these two cities. Summed up, these facts show an overwhelming satisfaction with the plans in each city, among all classes of persons. We were particularly to raise every objection we had heard about, both here and elsewhere, and pointedly presented these objections. The fact remains that a War Chest is an experiment anywhere, just as many of the war problems themselves are experiments, and none of the gentlemen who now endorse the plan enthusiastically, are able to say definitely that the War Chest will be an ultimate success, because, obviously, it has not had time enough to run, to become either a complete success or a partial failure. Syracuse presents the longest trial of the plan, nine months. As I have repeatedly stated heretofore, and as I stated when I first brought up the War Chest idea last December with the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and as I presented it in detail to Mr. Cockkendall, like every new thing, it has its redeeming qualities and its drawbacks. Furthermore, I am convinced that the problem has to be worked out in each community according to the particular conditions and contingencies in that community. One point is impressive to me—in Utica, Corning, Fall River, Mass., and other places, there was strong opposition to the plan when first suggested, among men of influence and standing in these communities, and I am reliably informed this opposition was removed when the full plan was better understood. Whatever is decided upon in Kingston, Mr. Thornberry and I quite agree that the War Chest system of campaign, combining publicity, soliciting, etc., has furnished a fine example of a modern system for getting the greatest number to give, and that it has merit worthy of being followed in any money-raising, whether it be put under the so-called War Chest fund plan or not.

Conclusion by Mr. Thornberry.

It has been our growing conviction, based upon careful study of each succeeding campaign which has come to Kingston, that a considerable number of our citizens are not meeting the opportunity which is theirs from time to time. When approached for a subscription to a particular fund their answer is "I have already given in previous campaigns and cannot afford to give at this time." The truth of the matter is they are not giving to any campaign and are thus shirking their responsibility. The War Chest Fund makes it practically impossible for a person to be a slacker in the matter of giving. As an illustration in a certain mill in Rome every employee but one had subscribed during the War Chest campaign. This individual was amply able to give something of his means to the fund but for some reason refused to do so. One morning the employees of this particular factory refused to go to work until the one individual had made his contribution. When it was thus put up to him he saw the light and added his mite with the rest.

The War Chest idea affords people of moderate income to make a larger subscription than they otherwise could give to any number of separate funds. This is made possible by the weekly or monthly installment plan. As an illustration of this I am reminded of the conversation I had with a woman in the street car in Utica. She was over 60 years of age, an employee of one of the Utica mills and engaging her in conversation she said "I am giving 25 cents a week to the War Chest Fund. I am giving so very cheerfully for I realize the need of this work and find that 25 cents a week from my pay envelope is not causing me any inconvenience. Enthusiasm and spirit of patriotism are kept alive in the subscribers by the constant reminders on their trip to a favorite place to pay their subscription or the memorandum which is handed to them by the factory paymaster that so much money has been deducted from their pay for the War Chest Fund. In fact a genuine interest in all things pertaining to the war seems to be increased through the War Chest idea. This is well illustrated by the message received from P. C. Thomas, general chairman of the War Chest campaign and secretary-treasurer of the Rome Manufacturing Co., as follows:

Rome, N. Y., April 18, 1918.

To Kingston Chamber of Commerce: War Chest plan proves popular with all mill employees, 95 77-100 per cent of all mill employees enrolled. They are glad of the opportunity to thus help relief work, as they otherwise could not. For the rest of the war why do we Kingstoners the distraction of more or less haphazard separate efforts each year, save the committee nerve racking work, and absolutely no further solicitation. Give everybody in Kingston a chance for intelligent estimate of giving capacity, deprive financial slackers of camouflage excuses, guard against fake war relief schemes, and make fair distributions to deserving causes, and make many lines effective in war work that were formerly quiet. Central idea of certain stated monthly amounts for duration of the war by everyone who can afford to give at all means far larger amount of funds, more comprehensive, intelligent and systematic giving. Disbursement committee represents all elements of population. Our subscribers are 40 per cent of population of the whole city. Rome is enthusiastic. Kingston cannot help being. P. C. THOMAS, General Chairman War Chest Campaign.

We are fully convinced that in the matter of collections there will be no greater falling off than in any other campaign. Human nature is about the same in its conception of its obligations and, while you will always find some who are not trustworthy and dishonest, the former percentage show enough honor in the meeting of their obligations that they have to be recognized rather than the other factor. Any campaign, be it what it may, will always have a certain amount of shrinkage. This shrinkage is just as problematical in one fund as in another and has to be dealt with in every case. After nine months of experience Syracuse says that their collections have reached 86 per cent of their subscriptions, without any statement from collectors sent to subscribers. Practically all of the few delinquencies are the small subscribers who have moved away, enlisted or died. This shrinkage will hold true in any fund whatsoever.

We are frank to state that at the beginning we were not in favor of a War Chest Fund. Since our visit to Rome and Utica we are now thor-

HUBERT RUSH ASKS FOR COMPENSATION

Prose His Fingers While Harvesting Ice on Rondout Creek and Later His Fingers Had to Be Amputated—Knickerbocker Ice Company Denies Rush Was Employed by Them.

The compensation claim of Hubert C. Rush, 63 years old, of 159 Wilbur avenue, was heard at the court house Monday afternoon before Deputy Commissioner William A. Abbot. The claim will be submitted to the full compensation commission, with Commissioner Abbot's recommendations.

Rush claims that he was harvesting ice on the Rondout creek on the morning of January 2, 1918, for the Knickerbocker Ice Company, and during this work his hands became frost bitten; and that the amputation of several fingers of both hands was the result.

The ice company deny that Rush was in their employ. Martin T. Nachman of Albany, appeared for the company. Rush was represented by Frederick E. W. Darrow.

According to Rush's statement he worked but half a day on the day of the alleged injury. About 10 o'clock that morning his hands began to pain and he rubbed snow on them.

At noon the men went on strike and Rush did not go back to work. His hands pained him more than afternoon and evening, but he did not think that any serious results would follow. He had a friend telephone to Dr. Daniel Connelly, and Rush used the remedies that the doctor suggested.

Rush did not go to the doctor personally until the middle of January. He then saw Dr. Connelly, who had Rush removed to the Kingston City Hospital. Rush's fingers were in bad condition, and Dr. Connelly advised amputation, but Rush refused at that time.

Dr. Connelly treated Rush until February 1, and after that Rush was treated by Dr. E. E. Norwood. Rush's fingers were in bad condition and Dr. Norwood also advised amputation. Rush finally consented and the fingers were amputated by Dr. Norwood.

Rush was also treated for a time in the Benedictine Sanitarium.

The Medical Testimony.
Dr. Connelly described the nature of the injuries to Rush's hands and stated that the frost bite was so severe that he thought even had Rush received personal medical attention when he first froze his fingers, that the ultimate result would have been the same and that the fingers could not have been saved.

Dr. Norwood corroborated the testimony of Dr. Connelly relative to the severity of the frost bite and that the fingers could not have been saved even in Rush had seen a doctor as soon as it happened. Dr. Norwood gave a technical description of the amputation.

Saw Rush Working.
Thomas Glennon, of 90 DeWitt street, John T. Egan of Abbot street and others testified that they saw Rush working on the ice on the day in question.

The Work Check System.
It was brought out that the ice company has a rather novel system of hiring men. The men appear on the ice field, pick up a tool and go to work. An hour or so later the time-keeper comes along and if he gives the worker a work check he is engaged; if the worker does not receive this check, he is not hired and he receives no pay for the work that he did do while waiting to find out if he would be hired.

The ice company claim that Rush did not receive one of these work checks; in fact officials of the company who had charge of the ice harvesting at Rondout creek, testified that they did not remember seeing Rush at the ice field at all.

Reason For Delay.
Rush stated that the reason that he did not put in his claim within the ten days was that he did not know that the compensation law covered ice harvesting work and he had been told that he had no grounds for a claim.

As soon as he understood that he could bring a claim under the workmen's compensation act, he did so. Commissioner Abbot stated that the commission was liberal in allowing for delay when there was good reason for same and when this delay did not prejudice the rights of the employer.

Points in the Case.
The commissioner stated that he would have the minutes sent to the respective attorneys and that he would submit the claim to the full commission.

He would recommend that it be ruled that Rush was in the employ of the ice company.

The important points to be determined, said Mr. Abbot, were whether the delay of Rush in presenting his claim had prejudiced the rights of the ice company; and whether or not if Rush had had personal medical attention from the start, the fingers could have been saved.

Another point was the temperature that day in question, and the records could settle that question. Witnesses stated that it was a very cold day, one said that it was from 18 to 20 degrees below zero.

Rush claimed that the pole he was using got wet, and thus his gloves got wet.

RESTRICTIONS ON WHEAT BUT NOT MEAT

As a help to housewives in keeping their consumption of wheat, meat, sugar and fat within the patriotic requirements of the moment, the United States Food Administration has issued the following suggestions.

All housewives who can entirely eliminate the use of wheat until the next harvest, about September 1, should do so.

Householders who are obliged to use wheat should not use more than a total of 1½ pounds of wheat or prepared wheat in any form, per person per week, including the wheat flour in Victory bread, and including the wheat flour or prepared wheat in crackers, pastry, macaroni, breakfast and other foods.

In estimating flour consumption, every 1½ pounds of Victory bread, which is bread manufactured by bakers under the regulations of the United States Food Administration, may be considered equal to 1 pound of wheat flour.

Meat of any kind may be eaten on any day in moderation until May 1. In buying wheat flour, an equal weight of other cereals as substitutes for wheat flour must be bought pound for pound. In buying graham, whole wheat or mixed flours the substitutes in them may be counted so that a smaller proportion of substitutes may be bought with these flours than with wheat flour.

Wheat flour substitutes are hominy, corn grits, cornmeal, corn flour, edible corn starch, barley flour, rolled oats oatmeal, rice, rice flour, buckwheat flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soybean flour and farina, flour and meal.

Householders in towns and cities may not buy more than ¼ of a barrel of flour at any one time. Householders in the country may not buy more than ¼ of a barrel of flour at any one time. In no event shall any purchaser have more than 30 days' supply on hand.

Eskimos Lunar Myth.

An Eskimo myth relates that "when a girl was at a party someone told his love for her by shaking her shoulders after the manner of the country. She could not see who it was in the dark but she smeared her hand with soot, and when he came back she blackened his cheek with her hand. When a light was brought she saw that it was her brother and fled. He ran after her and followed her, but as she came to the end of the earth she sprang out into the sky. Then she became the sun and he the moon, and this is why the moon is always chasing the sun through the heavens, and why the moon is sometimes dark as he turns his blackened cheek toward the earth."

Good For Some Love Letters.

A letter written with a solution of iodine of starch in water is perfectly legible for a few days. It is not, properly speaking, in the "invisible" category—at all events, for a while. But writing thus made has the advantage that after a week or two it fades out and vanishes forever, leaving no evidence that can be used against its author.

HOLD YOUR BOND, ADVISES M'ADOO

Those Who Sell Immediately After Purchasing Do Not Help Nation, He Says.

MAKE SACRIFICES TO KEEP IT.

Secretary of the Treasury in an interesting Statement Shows How Liberty Loan Dollars Are Being Used.

Secretary McAdoo has issued the following Liberty Loan statement:

"Again the American people have the privilege of lending their money, their savings, to their government for the purpose of making the lives and liberties of every American safe and of securing the lives and liberties of the gallant nations which fight with us.

"These bonds bear 4½ per cent interest. They are exempt from all federal, state and local taxation except the federal super-income taxes and inheritance taxes. They are due ten years after their date. They are the safest investment in the world, and they bear a rate of interest adequately and generously remunerative. The money derived from these bonds will be used to supply our soldiers and sailors with the food, clothing, guns, ammunition and other essentials which they must have if they are to win this war; to pay the wages of labor of those who are engaged in manufacturing these essential supplies; to pay for the raw materials and the farm products and the countless other things that enter into the war program of a great nation.

"We must not, we cannot consider the purchase of government bonds as a purely commercial or business transaction. War is not business, although the nation's business now is war. War is the death struggle for the principles and ideals for which a nation fights. Business must be adjusted to war, and every ordinary rule of business must be modified, altered or discarded if necessary to meet the supreme need of the nation in such a time. National necessity is the supreme law of war, and the first duty of every citizen is to subordinate himself and every interest to that supreme necessity. To lend one's money on safe security is at best a small contribution compared with the sacrifice the soldier makes, the sacrifice the widow makes, the sacrifice the mother and father of a dead hero make. Patriotism must at all times be the mainspring of action not only in the purchase of bonds, but in every other thing the good citizen does in the support of his government in time of war.

An Essential Service.

"Let us not, therefore, consider the purchase of government bonds merely as a commercial or business transaction, merely as an investment, however safe it may be. Let us consider it a privilege as well as a duty to perform this part of the essential service required of us so long as the war lasts.

"It is not enough to merely subscribe for a bond. The chief value of the subscription lies in the fact that the purchaser keeps his bond; that he denies himself something in order to keep it; that he saves something in order to buy it. When you lend your money to the government you must not sell your bond immediately on the market, because you do not help in that way. Every unnecessary sale of a government bond tends to depress the market price, and the more the market price of government bonds is depressed the more hurtful it is to the government's credit and to the genuine interest of the people of the United States. If the price goes below par there is an immediate demand on the part of the thoughtless people for an increase in the rate of interest, and every time the rate of interest is increased a new burden of taxation is imposed on the mass of the American people. I know that we are as a people sensible enough and strong enough and patriotic enough to continue to supply the government with all the money it needs at a reasonable rate of interest. Let us make a fight now to stabilize the rate and let us prove to the world that America's patriotism is not determined by the rate of interest per annum or by any other mercenary consideration.

"We must also learn that the first duty is to save. We are entering the second and, I hope, final stage of the war, the victorious stage for America. It is the savings of the people that constitute the real strength of the nation's power to produce and to supply the things indispensably required for the war. Every ounce of wool saved, every pound of food saved, every stroke of labor saved, is power exerted upon the battle front. We, therefore, add measurably to the strength of the nation by practicing economy and preventing waste."

Gulls in the Hen Coop.

A curious custom of the Newfoundland fishermen is that of keeping sea-gulls of a large species as domestic fowls. They capture the young while they are nestlings, and rear them on fish, confining them in pens. Their eggs are eaten, and for lack of a turkey or goose for Christmas, the fishermen is satisfied with a selection from his coop of fattened gulls.

THE CURSE OF HAVING A MASTER

Man is born with a passion for freedom. As he grows he discovers that he must regulate and to a certain extent restrict his freedom for his own good and for the good of the correlated units that make up what he comes to know as society. But if he makes concessions for the good of the social system he does so recognizing that his neighbors make concessions in order to make things smoother for him.

But the passion for freedom persists and expands. He will restrict his activities as a free agent; he will curb his inclinations, but the more he recognizes his obligations the more determined he becomes that he will do so only because he is free to meet these obligations as a reasoning being and is not subject to dictation.

The American, citizen of a nation conceived in liberty, will not brook coercion.

The German, subject of "the all highest," who imposes his autocratic will in all matters from religion to yacht racing, longs for freedom, but has lost the power to gain it through submitting year after year to the ever-insistent "Verboten." As Byron has said: "Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow."

You want to perpetuate freedom in this land of the free; you hate the thought of being cursed by a master. Buy Liberty Bonds. Keep America free and help to free Germany.

Keeping Warm in Finland.

In many ways the Finns are a very queer people. It is during the terrible cold months that the Finns revel in the mighty ovens that fill one corner of every kitchen and often loom up large and vastly impressive in the other rooms of a Finn home as well. The tops of these monster stoves are perfectly flat, and steps lead up on one side. When the weather becomes bitterly cold and bleak, the entire Finnish family will take quilts and pillows and, mounting to the top of the big heater, spread down their bedding and sleep very comfortably and contentedly on the hard hot bricks until morning.—Nevia C. Winter, in Christian Herald.

Famous Old English Castle.

Warwick castle is said to have been built by the Saxons before the first William landed on Albion's shores. One of its old towers has seen a thousand summers come and go, while the other portions of the structure belong to the fifteenth and the sixteenth centuries. It is one of the most romantic and picturesque edifices in England and is associated with the memory of the great "kingmaker" of the wars of the roses, Count Guy and other heroes who have changed in heavy armor through the spacious rooms and in the banquet hall drank the health of the beautiful ladies of their line.

How to Conquer.

Infinite toil would not enable you to sweep away a mist, but by ascending a little you may often look over it altogether. So it is with our moral improvement; we wrestle fiercely with a vicious habit, which could have no hold upon us if we ascended to a higher moral atmosphere.—Hepha.

McENELLY, ARMORY,

TWIN BATTLE IS NOW BREWING

London, April 23.—Increasing activity along the Somme and Aisne rivers and at various points north and south of the river indicated today that a twin battle was brewing and that it would break out in all its fury, perhaps simultaneously on both the Picardy and Flanders fronts.

The big question is "Where will the Germans deliver their main attack?" It may fall in the district of the Kemmel Ridge, in Belgium, a position of the highest strategic importance, or it may come in the sector of La Bassée Canal where the Germans tried several times before to break through in the direction of the British railroad position at Bethune. There has been an increase of activity south of the Scarpe river, opposite Arras, but the last German thrust there received a check so decisive that their hope of breaching the British front in that district probably was shattered.

A renewal of the drive on the Picardy front probably will see simultaneous blows struck against both the British and French. The strategy of this would be to widen the Somme salient in front of the British. These attacks doubtless would fall against the French between Montdidier and Noyon; against the mixed Anglo-French force south of the Somme and against the British in the district around Albert.

Military critics are of the opinion that General Foch has split up the Allied reserve army and that the forces are being held at strategic points from which they can be quickly rushed to the points most seriously threatened by the Germans.

LIGHTLESS NIGHTS ORDER SUSPENDED

Lightless nights, which were instituted last winter in connection with National Fuel Administrator Garfield's order for conserving fuel, have been suspended until the first of September, according to the following telegram received today by County Fuel Administrator John G. Van Coten from State Fuel Administrator Wiggins:

Co. New York, 10 25 a. m., April 23, 1918.

County Fuel Administrator, Judge John G. Van Coten, Kingston, N. Y.

At urgent request Liberty Loan Committee Director Garfield has suspended operation lightless night order beginning next Thursday night. On account of late hours of lighting brought about by daylight savings bill order will remain suspended until September first when it will again become effective. WIGGINS.

Fewer Sea Eagles Seen.

That the monarch of the air, the sea eagle, has disappeared from Calthness, as well as from the Orkneys and Shetlands, is a well-authenticated fact. The sea eagle is not very uncommon in the Orkneys and still builds its nest on various hills abutting on the cliff coast. The sites of the nests are on the edge of some large and well-stocked sheep farms. The birds have always been accused of killing lambs as well as hares and winged game, but the charge would be difficult to substantiate.

Deepest Lake in America.

A lake known as the Great Sukenen Lake, is reported to be the deepest lake in this country, and perhaps in the whole world. Located in the valley of the Cascade mountains, about 70 miles north of Jacksonville, Ore., this lake, which is about 15 miles long and four miles wide is so deep that its depth cannot be measured. It is situated so far below the crest of the mountains that winds cannot reach it, and its surface is like a sheet of glass. It is sometimes called the "lake of mystery."

Strapping Razor on the Hand.

It is claimed that the finest scrop for a razor is the fleshy part of one's hand, the little finger. If it is a safety razor blade grasp it between the thumb and first finger of the right hand and strike finger nail and blade at the same time on the fleshy part of the left hand. If you will do it slowly at first the motion becomes automatic. A little practice on the cutting edge is said to keep the blades constantly in first-class condition.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Begler-Schaeffer.

George Henry Begler of Connelly and Miss Anna Frances Schaeffer of No. 145 Greenkill avenue, were united in marriage Monday by the Rev. John P. Neumann of St. Peter's church. They were attended by George J. Crowe and Sue Schaeffer. Both young people have a host of friends who wish them a long and prosperous married life.

Bragg-Litts.

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Litts, Highland, Thursday evening, April 18, at 8:30 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Bertha Litts, was married to Frederick Bragg, of Lloyd. The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk and carried a bouquet of white carnations. The honeymoon will be spent in Boston, after which they will make their home in Lloyd.

Twentieth Century Club.

The year's work for the Twentieth Century Club, came to a close on Monday afternoon, when the members met at the home of Mrs. John Ryder on Wall street. The roll call was answered by "Impressions of the Year's Work." Mrs. Vrooman had the first paper for the day, on "The Fauna of South America." This was followed by another paper, "The Flora of South America," prepared by Miss Freeman and read by Mrs. Fessenden. Both papers were full of interest and information. The program closed with a reading, "Good-bye, Cape Horn," given by Mrs. Fessenden. Officers for the coming year were then elected as follows: President, Mrs. E. H. Bogart; vice-president, Mrs. John Ryder; secretary, Mrs. Virgil Van Wagoner; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Fessenden. A social hour followed, the club being entertained with victrola selections and the serving of refreshments.

Monday Club Gives Year's Income.

The last 1917-18 meeting of the Monday Club was held on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kenyon. The members present chose their individual subjects for their papers for next year, under the general topic of "Japan." Plans were formulated for entertaining the City Federation of Women's Clubs in May, regarding which an announcement will be made in The Freeman later. In giving the reports for the year the treasurer announced that there remained to the credit of the club, $25 and it was unanimously voted to give the same to the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross. This action meant that the club, has this year, given its entire income, $50, for the year, to the Red Cross, having met the expenses of the organization from the small surplus left over from the preceding year. Certainly this is a splendid showing. The business part of the meeting closed with the election of officers for next year, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. A. V. Kenyon; vice-president, Mrs. John Forsyth; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Rodney B. Osterhout. The year's meetings were brought to a close with a pleasant social hour.

STORM TROOPS TO SELL BONDS

New York's Rainbow Division of Trade Workers Ready to Go Over-Top.

WILL STRIVE FOR RECORD.

Unique Canvassing Organization Modeled on Military Lines to Make Whirlwind Campaign of Metropolitan During Drive.

In New York City the problem of selling the Liberty Bond allotment is largely solved by the efforts of the "Rainbow Division," composed of persons engaged in ninety-eight odd trades and professions in the metropolis. The "Rainbow Division" made a remarkable showing in the Second Loan, selling in the neighborhood of $322,000,000 worth of bonds. It is now ready to start out on the third campaign determined to top that high figure by a goodly margin.

The "Rainbow Division" works under the direction of the Advisory Trades Committee, of which G. de B. Green is chairman and Craig Colgate, vice chairman; Lombard Beerman, H. S. Bowers, Arthur E. Holden, Cecil D. Landale, M. K. Parker, Miss Virginia Potter, Arthur J. Rosenthal, Walter N. Stillman, Richard L. Swartz, Robert Timman, Jacques Weinberger, Beckman Wintrop and Milton S. Harrison.

Some of the industries and trades represented by the "Rainbow Division" are hardware, shipping, chemical, insurance, clothing, oil, metals, building, decorating, silk, woolen, dressmakers, engineering, moving pictures, groceries, jewelry, coal, rubber tires, poultry, fish, legal and medical professions, lumber, stone, transportation, machinery, confectionery, dry goods, printing, furniture, shoes, leather goods, umbrellas and canes, hosiery and underwear. In these trades are more than 1,200,000 workers, and the "Rainbow Division" intends to make an active canvass from the highest official down to the humblest employees in the effort to sell Liberty Bonds.

Organized along the lines of military efficiency, with generals, staffs, infantry, artillery, cavalry and storm troops, the "Rainbow Division" will make a flying start April 6, the day on which the Third Loan opens, bent on outdoing all others in the matter of obtaining subscriptions.

Each trade, profession and industry is represented by a committee composed of persons prominent in their line. The committee will try to get as many subscriptions as possible from the workers in its own business, but will sell to any patriotic citizen who appears along. All the committees together have a membership of upwards of 2,000 while the members are further assisted by volunteers. Both volunteers and committee men have taken time off from their regular occupations and will, without remuneration, devote themselves to the patriotic work of selling bonds.

During the drive whirlwind automobile tours of the city will be made. The "storm troops" represent a picked corps of 140 bond salesmen, known as bond advisers. They will attack the points of strongest opposition. Accompanied by speakers from the Speakers' Bureau of the Publicity Department of the Liberty Loan Committee, they will visit important meetings. After the speakers have outlined general purposes the bond men will take up special problems. They will follow up their expert reasoning by the distribution of subscription blanks.

In the Second Loan there was keen rivalry between the hardware, shipping and chemical trades in the race for leading honors in the way of subscriptions. First one of these three and then another would take the lead. The shippers got a good lead, and for a while it looked as if they would win, but the hardware men put over a subscription of several millions near the close of the drive and won with a total of $42,218,250. The shipping people were second, with $34,005,850, while the chemical men came along third, with $32,400,000. The competition for first honors is expected to be stronger than ever among all the committees in the Third Drive.

Keep Smiling.

Happiness of heart and soul can be willed. It is psychologically true that the laugh which is at first forced may later be made genuine. Try it. Try reading the joy column of the papers and magazines. Treasure the good news and pass them on to friends. Don't destroy a play because it is for laughing purposes only. Hunt such comedies and tell others of them. Start every day in good humor, with a smile. It will help brighten the day for others.

Eliminating Poison Ivy.

The cheapest and most effective method of eliminating poison ivy, according to experts of the United States department of agriculture, is the simple one of rooting up the plants and destroying them. If the poison ivy is in large fields it may be necessary to plow and cultivate the land. Ivy on large trees, stone walls and buildings can be killed by arsenate of soda, at the rate of two pounds to ten gallons of water. Two or three applications are sufficient.

Last Words of Rulers.

The ancients had an ear for last words, and among the reputed farewells of Roman emperors there have been landed down some cynical "What an artist the world is losing in me!" Julian's cry of surrender, "Thou has conquered, O Gallian!" and Vespasian's ironic, "I feel myself becoming a god."

The regular business session will be called at 7 o'clock. The public exercises will begin at 8 o'clock. It will be a patriotic service in keeping with the day. Mr. Tinner of Port Jervis will entertain us. There will also be an address by a prominent speaker, a flag ceremony by the officers and music by a quartet and other pleasing features. A silver offering will be taken to be applied to their "Liberty Bond" fund.

The anniversary supper and entertainment of Star of Kingston Lodge, S. of B., No. 35, on Thursday night, April 18, was a great success. A large audience enjoyed the entertainment and over 100 people partook of the supper, which was a fine one. The program was as follows: Song and tableau, Star Spangled Banner, 12 little girls; piano solo, Louisa Cory; recitation, Elsie Hornbeck; song, 12 girls. Don't Bite the Hand that's Feeding You; piano solo, Mary Finley; song, Sunshine Lane, Ed. Kidney, Ken. Hornbeck, Dewey Hornbeck; recitation, Florence Hornbeck; song, Dot Hornbeck, Louisa Cory; piano solo, Margaret Kilmer; song, 12 little sailors. Then came the bit of the evening, Little Elsie Hornbeck in Mickey Roger's dialogue, A Visit to the Old Regions; song, five girls.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, April 22.—Prayer meeting will be held in the church on Thursday evening of this week and thereafter each week until further notice is given.

On Friday last Miss Mary Paulding of Kingston visited her uncle, Alfred Terpenning.

Mrs. Alvah Drake, with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Drake and two children spent Saturday in Poughkeepsie visiting Mr. and Mrs.
Elmer Drake.

A business meeting of the Epworth League will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martin on Tuesday evening of this week, April 23d. All members are requested to be present as important business will be transacted.

Mrs. Selah Kimbark of Walden, has been spending a few days at the
M. E. parsonage with her sister, Mrs.
J. J. Lyons. On Saturday evening
Mrs. Lyons entertained the Adolphus
Club in honor of her guest and all enjoyed the evening immensely.

Mrs. Fred DuBois of Kingston, was a guest of Mrs. Edward Ashton and Mrs. Emma Dickerson on Thursday last.

to Esopus last week to attend the funeral of Mr. Lundy's uncle, Isaac
J. Burger.

The funeral services of Mr. Burger held in the Church of the Sacred Heart on Friday morning last were largely attended by relatives and friends. The deceased was a member of the Orlitani Tribe, No. 466, Improved Order of Red Men, and about twenty members of that organization attended the service in a body. A very large automobile cortege accompanied the remains to St. Mary's Cemetery, Kingston.

The Adolphus Club will hold a
"Lunch" social in the Methodist Church basement on Friday evening of this week, April 26th. The proceeds will be used to purchase a flag for the church. Every one is urged to attend and assist the young people in their patriotic effort. Price of lunch 25 cents.

SEAGER.

onta Normal, have been home on a week's vacation.

Norbury Terwilliger from Port
Wright is spending a short furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. N.
Terwilliger.

A very interesting meeting of the ladies of the Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church was held at the home of Mrs. C. T. Hawhurst on Park street Thursday evening, April 18, with a large attendance of members. "Africa" has been the subject under study the past year. The topic for this meeting was "Progress in Medical Work," and the leader was Mrs. E. E. Count and the following very interesting program as arranged was given: Singing, "O Master Let

GLASCO.

Glasco, April 22.—John W. Lasher will sell at public auction on Thursday at 10 a. m. a quantity of household furniture, also two horses and two cows.

John F. Vorhauer and Frank
Brown, Jr., of Poughkeepsie visited their parents here over Sunday.

Mrs. Lydia Van Wart, who has been quite seriously ill, is reported as being somewhat better.

Mrs. Howard Weeks and daughter,
Hilda, have moved to Scotia, where
Mr. Weeks has secured steady employment.

Shipments of brick are rather slow for the opening of the season and they are not expected to speed up much during the war.

Edward Smith expert accountant of New York and New Jersey, is making his annual visit at the Washburn store and office.

Burton Delaney has gone to Newark for employment. His father,
William Delaney, having been there for several months.

Born, April 10, 1918, to Mr. and
Mrs. David Plotnick, a daughter.
More baby carriages and fewer automobiles would prove a more sensible investment for the average family turnout, if they can't have both.

ST. REMY.

St. Remy, April 22.—There were no services on Sunday on account of the storm.

Irving Von Beck was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Freer on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ellsworth spent the week end with friends at Rifton.

Joe Ryan came home with his bride last Tuesday and the young people gave them a serenade in the evening.

Mrs. Schuyler Deyo spent last Friday with Charles Schultz and family.

Mrs. Annie Jones of Woodstock visited Mrs. Kathryn Sutton and Charles York and family a few days.

John Krom visited his friends in this place the past week.

The Rev. Father Prendergast of Wilbur called on his church people in this village on Friday afternoon.

Had Not Changed Much.

A negro, who was so singularly lazy as to be quite a problem, got converted in a revival. His associates in the church were extremely anxious to know whether he would not bestir himself and go to work. The negro attended a meeting and offered a prayer, in which occurred the petition:
"Use me, Lord, use me—in an advisory capacity."

ORGANIZE WOMEN'S AUTO CORPS FOR WAR

A Women's Home Defense Auto Corps will shortly be organized in Ulster county to serve whenever called on for the period of the war.

The new auto corps will wear a special uniform and must be ready at all times to respond to calls from the adjutant general of the state, under whose direction they will be. An oath similar to that required of members of the New York Guard will be required of those who join the auto corps.

Similar auto corps have been organized elsewhere and its members are under the supervision and direction of the adjutant general just the same as the men who belong to the Guard.

No. 7 Wins Again.

A fast game of baseball was played at the Athletic Field on Monday afternoon by teams of School No. 2 and School No. 7, the score being 6 to 5 in No. 7's favor. On Wednesday the No. 7 team will play the team of School No. 8, and on Thursday will play the team of No. 3, and they hope to win both games. This is the third game that has been played and won by the No. 7 team and they hope to earn the rest of their games during the remainder of the season.

Repeat Play Wednesday Night.

The playlet, "If I Only Had a Million," will be repeated at Lake Katrine Grange Hall on Wednesday evening. Dancing will follow and a good time is anticipated for everyone who attends.

WANTS 250 MEN FOR GENERAL SERVICE

Exceptional Opportunity for Energetic and Ambitious Young Men to Receive Special Mechanical Training for Military Service.

The adjutant general has notified the local exemption boards of Ulster county of a call for 250 grammar school graduates who are wanted for instruction which will prepare them for general military service.

The applicants must have had some experience along mechanical lines and must have some aptitude for mechanical work. Only white men and men physically fitted for general military service will be inducted under this call. They will receive a two months' course of training at government expense for service in army positions requiring knowledge of auto driving and repairing, blacksmithing, carpentry, gunsmithing and metal work in other mechanical lines incidental to many kinds of military service both at the front and behind the lines.

All men accepted under this call will receive thorough instruction which will be of the greatest possible value in working their way ahead both in the army and in civil life. This is an exceptional opportunity for energetic, ambitious young men.

Applicants must carry at least two suits of underclothing, one suit of outer clothing in good condition, a sturdy pair of shoes, three extra pairs of socks and two bath towels, as they will be kept in civilian clothes during the first three weeks, until they can be supplied with uniforms and other clothing.

Registrants desiring to enter this branch of the service should at once notify their local board who later will entrain them on May 7 for Rochester, N. Y., where they will report to the commanding officer at the Rochester Artillery and Mechanics' Institute.

Stock Sale Well Attended.

The B. H. Decker sale which was advertised in The Freeman some time ago, was well attended and over five hundred were present when the sale was pulled off. Colonel H. P. Low, of the Shady Maple Stock Farm of Wallkill, sold the herd at record breaking prices for Ulster county. Nineteen head of pure bred Holstein cattle sold at an average of $255 each. Nineteen head of grades sold at an average of $182.50 per head.

Best Persian Camels.

The best Persian camels are the powerful one-humped kind, which are bred in the province of Khorassan. This animal can carry a burden of 600 pounds at the rate of 20 miles a day. The ordinary Persian camel, however, will carry 400 pounds at the rate of 15 miles a day.

DETAILS OF BATTLE OF SEICHEPREY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, April 22.—(8 p. m.)—Although the Germans in the battle of Seicheprey, northwest of Toul, on Saturday, used every diabolical device known to Tontonic war genius the Americans stood up like seasoned veterans and gave blow for blow.

One of the weapons employed by the Germans was an automatic pistol that can fire 28 shots without re-loading.

Stories of individual bravery are still being told. That of Infantry Corporal George Houlison, of Ware, Mass., indicated what our men passed through in defense of American traditions and the democracy of the world.

Houlison, who is lying in the hospital suffering from two shrapnel wounds (neither serious), said:

"Our skipper (the captain) told us to support a machine gun company as he suspected trouble."

"The skipper comes from Connecticut and a gamer man you never saw. He fought alongside of his men throwing grenades."

"When the thing began I was in a dugout with Sergeant Hanson. I heard the reports and knew that the barrage was on. We hustled out and found thick fog. The barrage curtain was coming thick and we could hear the gas bombs bursting all around."

"Those shells hiss like big snakes as they go through the air and I thought to myself that some of the fellows must be getting it. The wind was in our favor but some of the fellows in the machine gun platoons had to fight with their gas masks on."

"I began to feel my nostrils tickle and knew that the gas was coming and that it was time to take precautions."

"Was I afraid? To tell the truth I was too busy to think about fear. There were two timid youngsters near me and I had to set the pace to put them at ease. After they saw me pumping a machine gun they forgot themselves and fought like old-timers."

"The men working one gun were laid out and I took the gun. They were lying in the mud with only their heads and stomachs showing. I heard one of the fellows called Red sing one: 'The wood is full of Boches. I could see them coming from every direction through the fog and amidst the trees.'"

"There was one big yellow headed stiff followed by seven others. Just then a shell burst and my gun was buried. It stunned me but I could see the big German laughing and the Huns behind him began to take it as a joke too. I pulled out my pistol and fired. I saw the big one keel over and the blood spurt from his forehead, so I knew I had got him. Then another shell burst nearby, wounding four of us."

"The Germans used wire and nails for shrapnel. I know because I used to work in an ammunition factory."

"We four winged guys crawled through the trenches where we found another corporal and nine men."

"The Germans tumbled in on us. The other corporal killed five in quick succession with his pistol. I never saw such shooting, and I thought I was pretty fair at it. He has me trimmed. It thrilled me to see how cool he was. He told me to forget my wound and fired until the pistol clips gave out and then he rowed one from a wounded comrade. After using all of these he took up a rifle and began firing. Soon we began to feel weak from loss of blood and a corporal told us we had better report to the dressing station."

"Red, Shorty and a fellow we called the Big Swede had all been wiped with shrapnel. We crawled through a trench over the bodies of dead Germans. Shorty had a hole in his back, Red had his shoulder broken, and we other fellows had game legs."

"The shells and machine gun bullets were whistling all around us as we crawled through the barrage. It reminded me of an inferno. There was too much racket to think. We reached the dressing station four hours after we had been ordered to report there, too weak to pull the trigger of a toy pistol."

"I would sooner be back with the gang than lying in this bed, but I will be on the job again in a few weeks."

"The Germans were onto their old tricks again. As they came at us through the woods one Fritz yelled, 'Americans.' We saw the wide helmets and knew they were Huns and began pumping in the steel. Our fellows were on the job and certainly pumped in the cold steel although the Germans had us nearly surrounded."

"One private, who had manned a machine gun at 'Dead Man's Curve,' said:

"I tried to keep the road clear and make it safe for our couriers but I finally got mine and here I am. Just let me get one more whack at them for killing two fellows of our squad and I will be willing to be planted on the hillside where the little white crosses grow."

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, April 23.—A. N. Pollant, of Montgomery-Washburn Co., was a Poughkeepsie visitor on Monday.

Mrs. E. R. Lillis of Poughkeepsie is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lewis, of Russell street.

Frank Hommel of Newark, N. J., spent Sunday with his family on Finger street.

William MacMullen, Jr., is ill at his home on Barclay Heights.

William Morgan has returned from Poughkeepsie, where he has spent the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacMullen of Jane street are in New Jersey.

George DuBois of Dock street was a Poughkeepsie visitor on Monday.

Walter Hallenbeck of Ulster avenue has secured a position in Whitehall, N. Y.

Samuel Pluckiger, of the A. & P. Store, has leased the house owned by Mrs. Eugene Lasher on Main street.

Braze Injured Monday.

Robert Braze, of No. 58 Gill street, fell from a pile of lumber at the Rafferty & Feeney boatyard in Ponckhookie Monday afternoon and sustained a broken arm. He was attended by Dr. John F. Larkin.

Birds of Towns.

Somebody must have a love for bird life, if these names, selected at random from the postal guide, indicate anything: Pigeonroost, Ky.; Lark, N. D.; Parrot, Ky.; Sparrow, Ky.; Swan, Tex.; Swallow, Ky.; Wren, S. C.; Crow, W. Va.; Blue Jay, W. Va.; Nightingale, Ala.—Columbia State.

COMPANY GAVE SATISFACTION.

Myrtle-Harder Company Played to Capacity House on Opening Night.

A capacity house witnessed the presentation of Cleve Kinkadee's famous drama, "Common Clay," which was the opening bill of the Myrtle-Harder Company at the Kingston Opera House Monday evening. The company's appearance in Kingston this week will not be the last as they demonstrated Monday night their ability to handle the roles assigned them with sympathy and to interpret them correctly. The wardrobe of the company cost a small fortune and no expense has been spared in the quality, quantity, variety and fashions of the dresses worn by the young women of the company. Tonight the company will play "Mile-a-Minute Kendall," and on Wednesday evening will play George M. Cohan's famous "It Pays to Advertise." Both will be produced as in their original settings. Matinee performances began today and will continue for the week.

Fitting Expiring Sentiments.

To Vespaian is attributed as an expiring sentiment, "An emperor should die standing" which seems to have appealed to two sixteenth-century English bishops—Woolton, whose last utterance is recorded as, "A bishop ought to die on his legs," and S-well, who declared, "A bishop should die preaching."

Rule Without Exceptions.

People differ in their opinion about jokes, but here's a rule that can be depended upon: A joke you tell yourself is always a good one.—Boston Transcript.

"THE FIGHTING QUAKERS."

Elsewhere The Freeman publishes two letters from Quaker readers who take exception to a recent editorial commenting on so-called "conscientious objectors" to military service, and comparing them with the militant stand taken by church denominations, notably Catholic and Methodist, in fighting for the preservation of American liberty. The Freeman's comment inadvertently including Quakers with the miserable breed of insincere and cowardly pacifists who try to cloak their real designs under the guise of religion or conscience. Perhaps the kindly and charitable minded members of the Society of Friends who form a not inconsiderable part of Ulster county's population will not agree with The Freeman's characterization of this miserable breed of "conscientious objectors," but they must concede that while conscience is a matter between a man and his Maker, it is justifiable to examine possible causes for overnight changes of conscience in determining the sincerity of the pacifist class.

The sincere Quaker is sincerely a pacifist up to a certain point. His position is well stated by one of The Freeman's correspondents who says: "Our principles, indeed, based upon our view of the teachings of Jesus, lead many of us to the position that we had rather be killed than to kill anybody. But our positive position is to do everything in our power to uphold our government and give aid to our bleeding allies." In other words, the true Quaker position seems to be that he will suffer wrong to his own undoing without resistance, but in the protection of the weak and downtrodden or in upholding the principles of right which Jesus Christ laid down, he will, indeed, "uphold our government," so long as our government is right. The conscientious Quaker will vigorously support the principles of right and justice for others when he would not take such action where he alone is concerned. The "conscientious objector," on the other hand, is willing to sacrifice principle at any expense as long as he can protect his own hide, and his conscience becomes defective only when he is called on to fight, not when the fighting is to be done by someone else.

Loyalty always has been a marked characteristic of the Quaker; its utter absence marks the slacker and the "conscientious objector." Colonial history is filled with examples of unparalleled heroism by Quakers; in the War of the Revolution they were found invariably on the side of right principles and justice. The War of the Rebellion furnishes many illustrious examples of Quaker loyalty and the story of "The Fighting Quakers," well known to all Civil War bibliophiles, is founded on the exploits of sons of Southern Ulster. The situation today is the same as it was then; sons of Ulster county Quakers are in service here and in France, alleviating suffering as Red Cross workers where they are exposed to unprincipled attacks of Germans who utterly disregard the red emblem which is the sign of mercy, and even on the fighting line where they are doing their part toward checking German domination which regards God as of secondary importance to the Kaiser.

The Quaker position is admirably stated in a pronouncement adopted by The Five Years' meeting, representing all the orthodox bodies of Friends, in session last October at Richmond, Ind., which stated: "In every war-crisis some of our members have gone along with the prevailing trend and method, but the body itself in its meeting capacity has remained through all the years unwaveringly true to the spiritual ideal. We have always been and still are a loyal, patriotic people, true to the ideals of citizenship, contributing in all possible ways to the promotion of noble and efficient government, and ready to take our full share in the labor, efforts, dangers and perils involved in the maintenance of true democracy. But we cannot surrender the central faith by which we live. We cannot accept Christ's teaching in theory and deny it in fact and action. We do not judge others who follow different apprehensions of duty, but as for ourselves we stand obedient to the light as given to us, and we are ready to maintain the truth as we see it, regardless of what it may cost us in trial and suffering. We desire to emphasize the positive aspect of our faith rather than to dwell upon a negative testimony, and it is our hope that our entire membership may now and in future make a great constructive contribution of love and service, and may exhibit in this desperate time a Christian faith colored with the red blood of martyrdom and heroism. We must not do less than those who believe that war is necessary and who are ready to fight with carnal weapons, nor can we seek an easier way of life."

When on earth, Jesus Christ—the gentlest man and teacher of history—taught obedience to lawfully constituted government, but when government failed and the Temple was being desecrated, He it was who drove the desecrators forth. So when the Temple of Liberty is about to be rent in twain by the Hun, the Quaker who would not fight to preserve his own life realizes a higher duty and becomes in his way as militant as anyone. It is unfortunate some of their blood cannot be transfused to the veins of American slackers and cowards who attempt camouflage under the name of "conscientious objectors."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

2242.—A Popular Style.
 Girls' one-piece, plaited dress, with sleeve in either of two lengths. Many girls are now wearing these box-plaited dresses. The one piece style is so comfortable and becoming to growing girls. The sleeve in wrap length is finished with a shaped cuff. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 12 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.
 Send 10c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date Spring and Summer, 1918, Catalogue, containing 550 designs of Ladies', Misses' and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches) all valuable hints to the home dress-maker.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago.

Your Son's Vacation.
 How will your son spend the summer? This question is uppermost in every home where there is a growing boy, and on the way it is answered will depend much of his future. In today's Freeman is an advertisement of Junior Plattsburgh, with office at 8 West 40th street, New York city, and it will cost only a postal card to get from them the free information they stand ready to give you. There is no such other institution in the country, and the expenses are so small, and the benefits so great, that you cannot afford to miss learning what they can do for your son.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF ACQUIRED LEADERSHIP

The Luckey, Platt and Company store has acquired acknowledged leadership in the art of home furnishing in the Hudson Valley. But, it is the maintenance of leadership that requires courage, perseverance and ability of no insignificant kind.

A lifetime of constant effort, understanding of critical popular demand, the ability to choose and buy the very best in home furnishings, knowledge of the art of home beautifying and its application—these are the prices Luckey, Platt and Company has paid for leadership.

Ever-faithful adherence to the standards upon which the business is founded—a constant, unswerving fidelity to the most discriminating patronage in Poughkeepsie and the surrounding country in the matter of true values and responsive alertness to the newest ideas, particularly appropriate to the homes of the Hudson River Valley—these constitute the responsibilities that Luckey, Platt and Company assumes to maintain its acknowledged leadership.

An invitation is always open to visit us, with absolutely no obligation to buy. This department of our store is particularly attractive at this time because of the February Furniture Sale which is now saving people hundreds of dollars. We wish to call your attention especially to "The Little White House" and the show windows.

TAUNTING JOLTS FOR KIND FOLKS

Picking Up Passengers Does Not Always Work Out as It Should.

EXPERIENCES OF MOTORISTS

Trials and Tribulations of Men Who Sought to Aid Those Not Fortunate Enough to Have Cars to Ride to Town In.

There are reasons why motorists do not pay more attention to the casual pedestrians whom they might pick up from the safety zone along the street car track and carry with them to the city center. Advice to motorists to travel with all seats filled as a means to assisting in transporting the people at all hours, and particularly at busy hours, has been heeded again and again by motorists who have all too often regretted their kindly feeling later, says Detroit Free Press. In a gathering of motorists at a club recently some incidents were related of the trials and tribulations of men who had decided to take the advice and aid those not so fortunate in having cars in which to ride at the time.

What's the Graft?

One motorist related an incident which made him hesitate about stopping to pick up a pedestrian. He said that he came to a full stop at a safety zone and asked a man standing there if he would like to ride downtown. The man turned round with a sneer and said, "What's your graft, anyway?" That man was left where he stood, with no car in sight and with his ears burning from the roasting he received within the few seconds it took for the motorist in question to get his car under way again.

Another motorist told of picking up a respectable business man who seemed in a hurry as he ran down a side street to the main car line. The business man climbed in gladly, but the moment he took his seat beside the driver settled back into that seat and placed his boots squarely on the dash of the car, where he left long scratches which remained until removed by that car owner. That driver said that he had stopped for no pickups except soldiers and women and children since that time.

Car Was No Good.

Another motorist had a car in which he took much pride and which was running particularly well at the time he picked up a man. That passenger by invitation immediately started to belittle the car of the man with whom he was riding, and said that that particular make had never been any good and that the company would never be able to make a good car if in business a hundred years. The driver was one of the partners in the company manufacturing the car he drove, so held his temper, but lost no more confidence in his product by picking up critical business men without cars of their own, but with decided opinions on the subject with which they had no experience.

So it went on, and man after man of the party showed plainly by his own experience that the dear people who do not own a motorcar care little for the opinion which the real motorcar owner may have of them after their boorish acceptance of a kindness well meant but oftentimes not repeated.

DANGER IN CRANKING AUTOS

This Is Especially So When Engine Is Not Working Properly—Little Tip Is Given.

There is always danger in cranking a machine by hand, the more especially if the engine is not working properly, as it may kick even though the spark be retarded. Sometimes it is hard work to start an engine with retarded spark—so here is a little tip: Open the throttle, but leave the spark off; turn the engine over two or three times, then turn on the spark and pull the crank upward, not downward, and you will not be in danger of breaking your arm.—Club News, Keystone Auto Club.

Both Were Satisfied.

A Missouri livery stable keeper put his hand in a mule's mouth to see how many teeth the mule had. The mule closed his mouth to see how many fingers the man had, and the curiosity of both man and mule was satisfied.

CARE OF ANTISKID DEVICES

Great Harm Will Result From Their Continual Use—Leaving Them On Is Expensive.

Antiskid devices are helpful under certain conditions, but great harm will result from their continued use. Because some devices are noisy there is a temptation to fasten them tightly to the tires. When this is done the extra pressure and the flattening out of the tires causes the cross grips to cut and gouge into the tire. When cross grips become worn, sharp and rough, they should be replaced. Otherwise the tread will be cut and moisture and dirt will do the rest.

Take off the antiskid devices as soon as the necessity for using them has passed. Leaving them on when they are not needed is highly expensive in tires.

LUBRICATING A SPRING SEAT

Many Car Owners Neglect to Turn Up Grease Cup Provided—Little Attention Necessary.

Many present-day cars are fitted with springs mounted on seats that oscillate. These spring seats usually have some means of lubrication, but many car owners never take the trouble simply to turn up the grease cup provided. While it is not necessary to turn the cup each day, it is advisable to give this part a little attention now and then. In cantilever suspensions the center bearing of the spring should be well oiled. Usually this bearing operates on a small steel shaft, extending out from the frame. In some cases a tube running transversely of the frame is used, either a grease cup or an oil hole will be found.

REPAIRING OF BRAKE SHOES

When New Parts Cannot Be Obtained Excellent Substitute Found in Piece of Steel.

When brake shoes are worn, it is the usual custom to replace them with new parts, but if these new parts cannot be obtained, an excellent repair can be made by bending a piece of soft steel

to fit around the cam. This should be about 1-32 inch thick, the same width as the brake shoe, and should be bent to fit snugly over the cam. When the wheel is in place this bushing cannot drop out of position, and so there is not much danger of it coming off.

TO RETRIEVE MIRED AUTOS

Device Serves as Shovel to Make Path for Stuck Wheel—Then Acts as Track for Car.

A novel device for retrieving mired cars is one which serves first as a shovel to make a path for the stuck wheel and then as a track on which the car may be run from the hole. In addition a wheel attachment is provided whereby the device may be used as a wrecking truck when one wheel is disabled. This consists of a metal trough in which are a series of tire cross chains which provide traction. One end is beveled to form a shovel edge and the other is metal capped, carrying a bearing and a wheel attachment and serving as a handle.

TROUBLE FOUND IN BATTERY

Corrosion of Terminals Decreases Power of Current for Lights and Ignition of Fuel.

If trouble develops in the battery, which upon examination is found to be up to normal and yet is not delivering enough current to furnish lights nor spark enough to ignite the fuel, the basic fault will very possibly be found in corrosion of the terminals. When the terminals are covered with a hard green deposit, no current can flow. Sometimes this deposit is so hard that it takes a chisel to remove it.

NEW YORK SUPREME COURT, U.S. District Court—Edith C. Holmes, plaintiff, against Joseph McLean, Margaret McLean, Vendout National Bank, Cornell Steamboat Company, Archibald R. Pardee, Addison D. Pardee, J. Townsend Johnson and Edward T. Shea, defendants.
In pursuance to a judgment of foreclosure and sale made and entered in the above entitled action, bearing date the 22nd day of April, 1918, I, the undersigned referee, in said judgment named will sell at public auction at the front door of the court house in the city of Kingston, county of Ulster and state of New York, on the 15th day of May, 1918, at 12 o'clock noon of that day the real estate directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

All that certain place or parcel of land, situate, lying and being in the said city of Kingston (formerly Rensselaer) bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at the corner of a lot now or formerly owned by Edgar Hudler and runs thence along said avenue northerly as said avenue runs thirty feet to a lot now or formerly owned by Benjamin Leverage, thence at right angles with said avenue westerly along the line of the lot of said Leverage one hundred feet, thence on a line parallel with said avenue southerly thirty feet and thence at right angles with said avenue one hundred feet to the place of beginning.

thirty-six (36) feet, thence at right angles with said avenue or last mentioned corner one hundred (100) feet, thence parallel with the first mentioned corner thirty-six (36) feet, thence along said lot one hundred (100) feet to the place of beginning.
Also all that tract or parcel of land, situate in the said city of Kingston and described as follows, to wit: BEGINNING at the corner of a lot now or formerly owned by Benjamin Leverage and runs thence along said avenue northerly as said avenue runs forty (40) feet, thence at right angles with said avenue westerly one hundred (100) feet, thence on a line parallel with said avenue southerly forty (40) feet to the lot of said Benjamin Leverage, thence westerly one hundred (100) feet to the place of beginning. Being in front forty (40) feet in rear forty (40) feet and one hundred (100) feet deep.
Also all that certain lot, place or parcel of land, situate in the city of Kingston aforesaid and more particularly described as follows, to wit: Beginning on the westerly side of Hasbrouck avenue at the east city corner of a lot now or formerly owned by Edgar Hudler and runs thence along said avenue northerly as said avenue runs thirty feet to a lot now or formerly owned by Benjamin Leverage, thence at right angles with said avenue westerly along the line of the lot of said Leverage one hundred feet, thence on a line parallel with said avenue southerly thirty feet and thence at right angles with said avenue one hundred feet to the place of beginning.
Dated Kingston, N. Y., April 23, 1918.

INQUEST RESUMED
BEFORE CORONER

Adjourned Hearing of April 4 Continued at Court House This Morning to Fix the Responsibility for the Broadway Crossing Accident.

The inquest to fix the responsibility for the Broadway crossing accident of March 4, when at 6:32 o'clock a West Shore newspaper train crashed into a Kingston City trolley car, resulting in the death of Grove Webster, Jr., Wasi Kosteki and Police-man John G. Boyd, and injuring fifteen, was resumed this morning in the court house before Coroner Ernest A. Kelly. The inquest was started April 4 and after the testimony of twenty-five witnesses was taken, was adjourned until today.

The nature of the testimony brought out today was about the same as that at the first hearing. A number of persons were called who were riding in the trolley that was struck, and most of these persons agreed that the gates were closed just as the trolley was about on the crossing; or that the gates came down on the trolley.

Most of the witnesses agreed that the trolley was running not more than five or eight miles an hour, and that the train gates were closed just as the trolley was whistling or by bell. There was no testimony brought out this morning relative to the speed of the train. At the other hearing most of the witnesses testified that the train was going unusually fast.

G. B. Tebow, general superintendent of the trolley road, was the first to testify this morning. He told of the rules and regulations relative to the employees of the company. Motor-men are forbidden to converse with any person excepting a superior officer or while giving instructions to a new motorman breaking in.

Employees of the company are given a physical examination when they enter the employ of the company, but are given no further physical examinations.

Mr. Tebow was called to the scene of the accident immediately after the crash, but knew nothing definite about the accident excepting information he had gathered in his investigation.

William E. Beadie of 74 Foxhall avenue, the conductor on the car that was struck, said that he thought that the gates came down just as the trolley was on the railroad tracks and that the gates hit the roof of the car near the top of the vestibule. The trolley car was going slow. He did not hear any whistle or bell and first saw the engine when it was about a foot away. He did not know whether or not there were freight cars on the tracks in front of the freight house at the time of the crash, but he did remember seeing freight cars at that point about an hour later.

John A. Fischer of Abell street, formerly an alderman, said that the trolley car was slowed down by O'Reilly's news store. Very near the crossing, as Mr. Fischer started to get out of the car he saw the gates coming down. A moment later the crash came. He thought he heard two distinct crashes.

Harry Wieber, of 122 Wurts street, who was riding on the trolley, testified that the gates were up, when he looked up, which was just before the trolley got to the crossing. He said that the gates were up when he looked up, which was just before the trolley got to the crossing. He said that the gates were up when he looked up, which was just before the trolley got to the crossing.

Charles Brazee of 164 Pierpont street testified that he thought the gates were up.

Richard McLean of 176 Wilbur avenue was also on the trolley car, but he did not give any definite information in his testimony.

John Grimm, of 7 Foxhall avenue, was also a passenger on the trolley. He got to the crossing when the gates were up or down. He said that the bell on the engine was ringing. This is the only testimony brought out so far that the bell was ringing. So far but one person has testified that he heard the train whistle.

The hearing will be resumed Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

HUBERT RUSH ASKS FOR COMPENSATION

Free His Fingers While Harvesting Ice on Rondout Creek and Later His Fingers Had to be Amputated—Knickerbocker Ice Company Denies Rush Was Employed by Them.

The compensation claim of Hubert C. Rush, 53 years old, of 159 Wilbur avenue, was heard at the court house Monday afternoon before Deputy Commissioner William A. Abbot.

The claim will be submitted to the full compensation commission, with Commissioner Abbot's recommendation.

Rush claims that he was harvesting ice on the Rondout creek on the morning of January 2, 1918, for the Knickerbocker Ice Company, and during this work his hands became frost bitten; and that the amputation of several fingers of both hands was the result.

The ice company deny that Rush was in their employ. Martin T. Nachman of Albany appeared for the company. Rush was represented by Frederick E. W. Darrow.

According to Rush's statement he worked but half a day on the day of the alleged injury. About 10 o'clock that morning his hands began to pain and he rubbed snow on them.

At noon the men went on strike and Rush did not go back to work. His hands pained him more than afternoon and evening, but he did not think that any serious results would follow. He had a friend telephone to Dr. Daniel Connelly, and Rush used the remedies that the doctor suggested.

Rush did not go to the doctor personally until the middle of January. He then saw Dr. Connelly, who had Rush removed to the Kingston City Hospital. Rush's fingers were in bad condition, and Dr. Connelly advised amputation, but Rush refused at that time.

Dr. Connelly treated Rush until February 1, and after that Rush was treated by Dr. E. E. Norwood. Rush's fingers were in bad condition and Dr. Norwood also advised amputation. Rush finally consented and the fingers were amputated by Dr. Norwood.

Rush was also treated for a time in the Benedictine Sanitarium.

The Medical Testimony.

Dr. Connelly described the nature of the injuries to Rush's hands and stated that the frost bite was so severe that he thought even had Rush received personal medical attention when he first froze his fingers, that the ultimate result would have been the same and that the fingers could not have been saved.

Dr. Norwood corroborated the testimony of Dr. Connelly relative to the severity of the frost bite and that the fingers could not have been saved even in Rush had seen a doctor as soon as it happened. Dr. Norwood gave a technical description of the amputation.

Saw Rush Working.

Thomas Glennon, of 90 DeWitt street, John T. Egan, of Abell street, and others testified that they saw Rush working on the ice on the day in question.

The Work Check System.

It was brought out that the ice company has a "work check" system of hiring men. The men appear on the ice field, pick up a tool and go to work. An hour or so later the timekeeper comes along and if he gives the worker a work check he is engaged; if the worker does not receive this check, he is not hired and he receives no pay for the work that he did do while waiting to find out if he would be hired.

The ice company claim that Rush did not receive one of these work checks; in fact officials of the company who had charge of the ice harvesting at Rondout creek, testified that they did not remember seeing Rush at the ice field at all.

William Terpening, foreman of the ice harvesting at Rondout creek, Jacob Bower, timekeeper, F. J. Baker, superintendent of this district, and William J. Gallagher, claim agent for the company, denied that Rush was employed by the company, and said that the injury had not been heard of until the company had not heard of the alleged injury until February 21.

Reason For Delay.

Rush stated that the reason that he did not put in his claim within the ten days was that he did not know that the compensation law covered ice harvesting work and he had been told that he had no grounds for a claim.

As soon as he understood that he could bring a claim under the workmen's compensation act, he did so.

Commissioner Abbot stated that the commission was liberal in allowing for delay when there was good reason for same and when this delay did not prejudice the rights of the employer.

Points in the Case.

The commissioner stated that he would have the minutes sent to the respective attorneys and that he would submit the claim to the full commission.

He would recommend that it be ruled that Rush was in the employ of the ice company.

The important points to be determined, said Mr. Abbot, were whether the delay of Rush in presenting his claim had prejudiced the rights of the ice company; and whether or not if Rush had had personal medical attention from the start, the fingers could have been saved.

Another point was the temperature that day in question, and the records would settle that question. Witnesses stated that it was a very cold day, one said that it was from 18 to 20 degrees below zero.

Rush claimed that the pole he was using got wet, and thus his gloves got wet.

RESTRICTIONS ON WHEAT BUT NOT MEAT

As a help to housewives in keeping their consumption of wheat, meat, sugar and fat within the patriotic requirements of the moment, the United States Food Administration has issued the following suggestions.

All housewives who can entirely eliminate the use of wheat until the next harvest, about September 1, should do so.

Householders who are obliged to use wheat should not use more than a total of 1 1/2 pounds of wheat or prepared wheat in any form, per person per week, including the wheat flour in Victory bread, and including the wheat flour or prepared wheat in crackers, pastry, macaroni, breakfast and other foods.

In estimating flour consumption, every 1 1/2 pounds of Victory bread, which is bread manufactured by bakers under the regulations of the United States Food Administration, may be considered equal to 1 pound of wheat flour.

Meat of any kind may be eaten on any day in moderation until May 1. In buying wheat flour, an equal weight of other cereals as substitutes for wheat flour must be bought pound for pound. In buying graham, whole wheat or mixed flours the substitutes in them may be counted so that a smaller proportion of substitutes may be bought with these flours than with wheat flour.

Wheat flour substitutes are hominy, corn grits, cornmeal, corn flour, edible corn starch, barley flour, rolled oats oatmeal, rice, rice flour, buckwheat flour, potato flour, sweet potato flour, soy bean flour and farina, flour and meals.

Householders in towns and cities may not buy more than 1/4 of a barrel of flour at any one time. Householders in the country may not buy more than 1/2 of a barrel of flour at any one time. In no event shall any purchaser have more than 30 days' supply on hand.

STONE RIDGE.

The first rehearsal for the play, "The Jonesville Experience Meeting" to be given by the C. E. Society in May, will be held at the home of Mrs. Oscar Hornbeck on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Elmendorf, who have been spending the winter in Florida, have returned home. Mr. Elmendorf drove all the way home in his auto, making stops at Washington, Baltimore and other places of interest.

Eskimos Lunar Myth.

An Eskimo myth relates that "when a girl was at a party someone told his love for her by shaking her shoulders after the manner of the country. She could not see who it was in the dark hut; she smeared her hand with soot, and when he came back she blackened his cheek with her hand. When a light was brought she saw that it was her brother and fled. He ran after her and followed her, but as she came to the end of the earth she sprang out into the sky. Then she became the sun and the moon, and this is why the moon is always chasing the sun through the heavens, and why the moon is sometimes dark as he turns his blackened cheek toward the earth."

Good For Some Love Letters.

A letter written with a solution of iodine of starch in water is perfectly legible for a few days. It is not properly speaking in the "invisible" category—at all events, for a while. But writing thus made has the advantage that after a week or two it fades out and vanishes forever, leaving no evidence that can be used against its author.

HOLD YOUR BOND, ADVISES M'ADOO

Those Who Sell Immediately After Purchasing Do Not Help Nation, He Says.

MAKE SACRIFICES TO KEEP IT.

Secretary of the Treasury in an interesting Statement Shows How Liberty Loan Dollars Are Being Used.

Secretary McAdoo has issued the following Liberty Loan statement:

"Again the American people have the privilege of lending their money, their savings, to their government for the purpose of making the lives and liberties of every American safe and of securing the lives and liberties of the gallant nations which fight with us.

"These bonds bear 4 1/2 per cent interest. They are exempt from all federal, state and local taxation except the federal super-income taxes and inheritance taxes. They are due ten years after their date. They are the safest investment in the world, and they bear a rate of interest adequately and generously remunerative. The money derived from these bonds will be used to supply our soldiers and sailors with the food, clothing, guns, ammunition and other essentials which they must have if they are to win this war; to pay the wages of labor of those who are engaged in manufacturing these essential supplies; to pay for the raw materials and the farm products and the countless other things that enter into the war program of a great nation.

"We must not, we cannot consider the purchase of government bonds as a purely commercial or business transaction. War is not business, although the nation's business now is war. War is the death struggle for the principles and ideals for which a nation fights. Business must be adjusted to war, and every ordinary rule of business must be modified, altered or discarded if necessary to meet the supreme need of the nation in such a time. National necessity is the supreme law of war, and the first duty of every citizen is to subordinate himself and every interest to that supreme necessity. To lend one's money on safe security is at best a small contribution compared with the sacrifice the dying soldier makes, the sacrifice the widow makes, the sacrifice the mother and father of a dead hero make. Patriotism must at all times be the mainspring of action not only in the purchase of bonds, but in every other thing the good citizen does in the support of his government in time of war.

An Essential Service.

"Let us not, therefore, consider the purchase of government bonds merely as a commercial or business transaction, merely as an investment, however safe it may be. Let us consider it a privilege as well as a duty to perform this part of the essential service required of us so long as the war lasts.

"It is not enough to merely subscribe for a bond. The chief value of the subscription lies in the fact that the purchaser keeps his bond; that he denies himself something in order to keep it; that he saves something in order to buy it. When you lend your money to the government you must not sell your bond immediately on the market, because you do not help in that way. Every unnecessary sale of a government bond tends to depress the market price, and the more the market price of government bonds is depressed the more hurtful it is to the government's credit and to the genuine interest of the people of the United States. If the price goes below par there is an immediate demand on the part of the thoughtless people for an increase in the rate of interest, and every time the rate of interest is increased a new burden of taxation is imposed on the mass of the American people. I know that we are as a people sensible enough and strong enough and patriotic enough to continue to supply the government with all the money it needs at a reasonable rate of interest. Let us make a fight now to stabilize the rate and let us prove to the world that America's patriotism is not determined by the rate of interest per annum or by any other mercenary consideration.

"We must also learn that the first duty is to save. We are entering the second and, I hope, final stage of the war, the victorious stage for America. It is the savings of the people that constitute the real strength of the nation's power to produce and to supply the things indispensably required for the war. Every ounce of wool saved, every pound of food saved, every stroke of labor saved, is power exerted upon the battle front. We, therefore, add measurably to the strength of the nation by practicing economy and preventing waste."

Gulls in the Hancock.

A curious custom of the Newfoundland fishermen is that of keeping gulls of a large species as domestic fowls. They capture the young while they are nestlings, and rear them on fish, confining them in pens. Their eggs are eaten, and, for lack of a turkey or goose for Christmas, the fishermen is satisfied with a selection from his coop of fattened gulls.

THE CURSE OF HAVING A MASTER

Man is born with a passion for freedom. As he grows he discovers that he must regulate and to a certain extent restrict his freedom for his own good and for the good of the correlated units that make up what he comes to know as society. But if he makes concessions for the good of the social system he does so recognizing that his neighbors make concessions in order to make things smoother for him.

But the passion for freedom persists and expands. He will restrict his activities as a free agent; he will curb his inclinations, but the more he recognizes his obligations the more determined he becomes that he will do so only because he is free to meet these obligations as a reasoning being and is not subject to dictation.

The American, citizen of a nation conceived in liberty, will not brook coercion.

The German, subject of "the all highest," who imposes his autocratic will in all matters from religion to yacht racing, longs for freedom, but has lost the power to gain it through submitting year after year to the everlasting "verboten." As Byron has said: "Who would be free, themselves must strike the blow."

You want to perpetuate freedom in this land of the free; you hate the thought of being cursed by a master. Buy Liberty Bonds. Keep America free and help to free Germany.

Take That Extra Forty Winks.

The sage observation that "it's nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to lie in bed" is no longer a shameful confession of laziness. The British ministry of munitions investigating the health and efficiency of its workers found that too-early rising is harmful.

Keeping Warm in Finland.

In many ways the Finns are a very queer people. It is during the terrible cold months that the Finns revel in the mighty ovens that fill one corner of every kitchen and often loom up large and vastly impressive in the other rooms of a Finn home as well. The tops of these monster stoves are perfectly flat, and steps lead up on one side. When the weather becomes bitterly cold and bleak, the entire Finnish family will take quilts and pillows and, mounting to the top of the big heater, spread down their bedding and sleep very comfortably and contentedly on the hard hot bricks until morning.—Nevia C. Winter, in Christian Herald.

Famous Old English Castle.

Warwick castle is said to have been built by the Saxons before the first William landed on Albion's shores. One of its old towers has seen a thousand summers come and go, while the other portions of the structure belong to the fifteenth and the sixteenth centuries. It is one of the most romantic and picturesque edifices in England and is associated with the memory of the great "kingmaker" of the wars of the roses, Count Guy and other heroes who have clanked in heavy armor through the spacious rooms and in the banquet hall drank the health of the beautiful ladies of their line.

How to Conquer.

Infinite toil would not enable you to sweep away a mist, but by ascending a little you may often look over it altogether. So it is with our moral improvement: we wrestle fiercely with a vicious habit, which could have no hold upon us if we ascended into a higher moral atmosphere.—Lips.

MATTERS BEFORE
THE SURROGATE

The will of Charles M. Harcourt of New Paltz was admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court today. The testator gives the life use of the estate to his wife, Gertrude M. Harcourt, at whose death the remainder is given equally to his son, Alfred Harcourt, and granddaughter, Magdalene E. Brooks. Mrs. Harcourt and Alfred Harcourt are appointed executors. The will was executed April 19, 1912, and witnessed by William H. Van Wagenen and John N. Vanderlyn. The value of the estate is $5,000 personal property. John N. Vanderlyn appeared for the executors. Letters of administration on the estate of David M. DeWitt of this city were issued to his brother, Mac Donald DeWitt, of New York city. The value of the estate is $1,000 personal property. The administrator appeared in person. In the estate of Mary E. Rowe of the town of Hurley, a petition for a judicial settlement was filed by Edgar Rowe, the administrator, and a citation issued. Senator Charles W. Walton appeared for the administrator.

Discipline Essential.

Those who escape discipline are to be pitied, but we may be sure the escape will not be for long. The order of the world provides for this without our interference. In most cases we had much better be concerned in holding our hands off or in providing alleviations for the hours between these needful buffetings by the heavy hand of fate. The discipline of others, in other words, ordinarily is none of our business. We may safely and wisely leave it to parents, school masters, police, and to the hard knocks of life.

PATRIOTISM AT
K. OF C. HALL

Monthly Meeting of Fourth Degree Assembly Held Monday Night—Featured by Inspiring Patriotic Addresses and Musical Program.

The Rev. John Henry of the Clove Church, the Rev. Martin P. O'Garra of St. Joseph's Church, Roscoe Irwin, internal revenue collector, William D. Cashin, William O'Reilly, Richard McCutcheon, E. Frank Flanagan and John C. Darrow were the speakers at the monthly meeting of the Fourth Degree Assembly of the Knights of Columbus, held Monday evening at K. of C. Hall. William Dugan was the chairman. Dancing followed the meeting, which was attended by three hundred persons. Muller's orchestra played.

A musical program was rendered by Miss Catherine Dugan, Mrs. Mann, and Deputy Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy. Their selections consisted of patriotic solos. Patriotism was the keynote of all the speeches.

William Dugan in introducing Mr. Irwin, said: "Our candidate for the next governor of this state."

Mr. Irwin speaking of the war said that there are two predominant principles arrayed against each other. Everyone in this nation must accept one or the other. There is no middle ground. You are against us if not for us; the two contending forces are directly antagonistic to each other and they are contending for the mastery of the human race. On one hand is autocracy, on our side is the right of liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Father Henry made an eloquent plea in the interests of the Third Liberty Loan. He said: "If you cannot hold a rifle you can send a shot over there with a liberty bond that will reach the German Kaiser and help to win the war."

The "Ode to the Service Flag" was effectively recited by Deputy Internal Revenue Collector John S. Darrow of Albany.

MEET HUN WARFARE
WITH LIBERTY BONDS

Funds Will Provide Best Fighting Equipment for Soldiers, Says Yale and Towne Official.

Evidence of the thorough support that is being given to the Third Liberty Loan campaign by the great industrial concerns of the Second Federal Reserve District is shown in a statement made by Joseph A. Horne, vice president of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company, whose plant is at Stamford, Conn. Mr. Horne said:

"We have lost many valuable young men from our plants who have gone into the trenches, the navy, the flying corps, the training camps and other fields of government service, and included among these is the president of our company, who is now a major somewhere in France, and we have been proud to see them go, glad that our men could render this service. But that pride and that gladness have been based on one thing, without which we could have felt nothing but regret and anxiety at their departure, and that thing is our absolute faith that this country will, through overwhelming support of the Third Liberty Loan and whatever loans may come after it, supply the government with ample funds to give these young men the best fighting chance it is possible for them to have.

Liberty Loans mean the best fighting equipment, the best food, the best protection from German methods of warfare, the best sanitation—in short, the best of everything that soldiers should have. As long as our men have these, as long as the American people continue to stand behind them the way they have in the past Liberty Loans, we shall feel nothing but pride and joy for our men at the front."

GUARD SOLDIERS' MORALS.

One of the uses of the proceeds of the Liberty Loan that will appeal strongly to the great mass of American people is the care and attention given to the moral welfare and protection of the American soldiers.

Heretofore with the American army and even now with some of the armies of our allies the moral welfare of the soldier was and is a matter largely ignored. In the German armies provision is even made for immorality.

It is to the glory of American arms and American national character that of the men who wear the United States uniform a high standard of conduct is expected and demanded and provided for. Kipling's "Single men in barracks" are not to find their prototypes in the American army.

General Pershing says there is no cleaner living body of men in the world than the American army in France.

Etiquette of Fish Feast.

In the Samoan Islands, when a fish feast is held, the piece de resistance must be divided up in accordance with a rigid and unvarying etiquette. The heads are assigned to the tribal orators, who are of the high nobility. The flesh just behind the gills is set apart for guests whom the host of the occasion desires to honor. The pectoral fins (a particular delicacy) go to the king. The cuts across the spine just about the pectorals (the very parts we should think most desirable) are distributed among the common people. For the chiefs the tail and belly parts are reserved.

PRIVATE ASHBY
DIED ON MONDAY

At Christ Hospital, Jersey City, of Pneumonia—Was Slated for Overseas Duty When Taken Ill—A Young Man of Sterling Qualities.

PRIVATE CHARLES T. ASHBY.

Private Charles T. Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Ashby, of No. 18 Ponckhockie street, died Monday at the Christ Hospital in Jersey City of pneumonia, aged 23 years. Private Ashby was slated for overseas duty when taken ill and removed to the hospital.

Private Ashby left Kingston on September 29, 1917, with the Ulster county men who left in the first contingent sent to Camp Dix where he became a member of the 310th Infantry. Later he was sent to Camp Greene, North Carolina, where he was assigned to Company A, 60th U. S. Infantry of the Fifth Division, who were later sent to Camp Merritt for transportation overseas to France. There he has been taken ill of pneumonia. The body was brought to this city and taken in charge by Stock & Cordts, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Private Ashby was born in Kingston and had been a resident of this city all his life. He attended School No. 4, and after leaving school he entered the employ of C. E. Powell in his box making plant on Pine Grove avenue. He was later employed in the grocery store of B. Sussan on the Strand in Ponckhockie.

He was a young man of sterling qualities, an earnest and devoted Christian and well liked by all those with whom he came in contact and made many friends. He was a member of the Ponckhockie Union Church and assistant superintendent of the Sunday school.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Ashby, one brother, Edwin W. Ashby, who is in the service of our country at the headquarters of the 107th at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C.

The body has been taken to his late residence from which place the funeral services will be held.

Duties of the Queen Bee.

It may be interesting to some people to learn that all the work in a beehive is done by female bees. The drones, or males, live on the labors of their more industrious female companions. Moreover, there is no such thing as a king bee. The ruler of the hive is the queen, but she is a ruler in name only, being guarded and protected by the bees simply because the colony would become extinct if she did not lay eggs at a prodigious rate. It is not unusual for a good queen to produce her own weight in eggs in a single day, and she keeps this up for weeks at a time.

WANTS 250 MEN FOR GENERAL SERVICE

Exceptional Opportunity for Energetic and Ambitious Young Men to Receive Special Mechanical Training for Military Service.

The adjutant general has notified the local exemption boards of Ulster county of a call for 250 grammar school graduates who are wanted for instruction which will prepare them for general military service.

The applicants must have had some experience along mechanical lines and must have some aptitude for mechanical work. Only white men and men physically fitted for general military service will be inducted under this call. They will receive a two months' course of training at government expense for service in army positions requiring knowledge of auto driving and repairing, blacksmithing, carpentry, gunsmithing and metal work in other mechanical lines. Incidental to many kinds of military service both at the front and behind the lines.

All men accepted under this call will receive thorough instruction which will be of the greatest possible value in working their way ahead both in the army and in civil life. This is an exceptional opportunity for energetic, ambitious young men.

Applicants must carry at least two suits of underclothing, one suit of outer clothing in good condition, sweater, stout pair of shoes, three extra pairs of socks and two bath towels, as they will be kept in civilian clothes during the first three weeks, until they can be supplied with uniforms and other clothing.

Registrants desiring to enter this branch of the service should at once notify their local board who later will entrain them on May 2 for Rochester, N. Y., where they will report to the commanding officer at the Rochester Armory and Mechanics Institute.

Stock Sale Well Attended.

The B. H. Decker sale which was advertised in The Freeman some time ago, was well attended and over five hundred were present when the sale was pulled off. Colonel H. P. Low, of the Shady Maple Stock Farm of Walkkill, sold the herd at record breaking prices for Ulster county. Nineteen head of pure bred Holstein cattle sold at an average of $265 each. Nineteen head of grades sold at an average of $182.50 per head.

Best Persian Camels.

The best Persian camels are the powerful one-humped kind, which are bred in the province of Khorassan. This animal can carry a burden of 600 pounds at the rate of 20 miles a day. The ordinary Persian camel, however, will carry 400 pounds at the rate of 15 miles a day.

DETAILS OF BATTLE OF SEICHEPREY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

With the American Army in France, April 22.—(8 p. m.)—Although the Germans in the battle of Seicheprey, northwest of Toul, on Saturday, used every diabolical device known to Teutonic war genius the Americans stood up like seasoned veterans and gave blow for blow.

One of the weapons employed by the Germans was an automatic pistol that can fire 25 shots without reloading.

Stories of individual bravery are still being told. That of Infantry Corporal George Houlison, of War, Mass., indicated what our men passed through in defense of American traditions and the democracy of the world.

Houlison, who is lying in the hospital suffering from two shrapnel wounds (neither serious), said:

"Our skipper (the captain) told us to support a machine gun company as he suspected trouble."

"The skipper comes from Connecticut and a gamer man you never saw. He fought alongside of his men throwing grenades."

"When the thing began I was in a dugout with Sergeant Hanson. I heard the reports and knew that the barrage was on. We hustled out and found thick fog. The barrage curtain was coming thick and we could hear the gas bombs bursting all around."

"Those shells hiss like big snakes as they go through the air and I thought to myself that some of the fellows must be getting it. The wind was in our favor but some of the fellows in the machine gun platoons had to fight with their gas masks on."

"I began to feel my nostrils tickle and knew that the gas was coming and that it was time to take precautions."

"Was I afraid? To tell the truth I was too busy to think about fear. There were two timid youngsters near me and I had to set the pace to put them at ease. After they saw me pumping a machine gun they forgot themselves and fought like old-timers."

"The men working one gun were laid out and I took the gun. They were lying in the mud with only their heads and stomachs showing. I heard one of the fellows called Red sing one: 'The wood is full of Boches.' I could see them coming from every direction through the fog and amidst the trees."

"There was one big yellow headed stiff followed by seven others. Just then a shell burst and my gun was buried. It stunned me but I could see the big German laughing and the Huns behind him began to take it as a joke too. I pulled out my pistol and fired. I saw the big one keel over and the blood spurt from his forehead, so I knew I had got him. Then another shell burst nearby, wounding four of us."

"The Germans used wire and nails for shrapnel. I know because I used to work in an ammunition factory. We four winged guys crawled through the trenches where we found another corporal and nine men."

"The Germans tumbled in on us. The other corporal killed five in quick succession with his pistol. I never saw such shooting, and I thought I was pretty fair at it. He has me trimmed. It thrilled me to see how cool he was. He told me to forget my wound and fired until the pistol clips gave out and then borrowed one from a wounded comrade. After using all of these he took up a rifle and began firing. Soon we began to feel weak from loss of blood and a corporal told us we had better report to the dressing station."

"Red, Shorty and a fellow we called the Big Swede had all been nipped with shrapnel. We crawled through a trench over the bodies of dead Germans. Shorty had a hole in his back. Red had his shoulder broken, and we other fellows had game legs."

"The shells and machine gun bullets were whistling all around us as we crawled through the barrage. It reminded me of an inferno. There was too much racket to think. We reached the dressing station four hours after we had been ordered to report there, too weak to pull the trigger of a toy pistol."

"I would sooner be back with the gang than lying in this bed, but I will be on the job again in a few weeks."

"The Germans were onto their old tricks again. As they came at us through the woods one Fritz yelled, 'Americans.' We saw the wide helmets and knew they were Huns and began pumping in the steel. Our fellows were on the job and certainly pumped in the cold steel although the Germans had us nearly surrounded."

One private, who had manned a machine gun at "Dead Man's Curve," said:

"I tried to keep the road clear and make it safe for our couriers but I finally got mine and here I am. Just let me get one more whack at them for killing two fellows of our squad and I will be willing to be planted on the hillside where the little white crosses grow."

COMPANY GAVE SATISFACTION.

Myrtle-Harder Company Played to Capacity House on Opening Night.

A capacity house witnessed the presentation of Cleve Kinkadee's famous drama, "Common Clay," which was the opening bill of the Myrtle-Harder Company at the Kingston Opera House Monday evening. The company's appearance in Kingston this week will not be the last as they demonstrated Monday night their ability to handle the roles assigned them with sympathy and to interpret them correctly. The wardrobe of the company cost a small fortune and no expense has been spared in the quality, quantity, variety and fashions of the dresses worn by the young women of the company. Tonight the company will play "Mie-a-Minute-Kendall," and on Wednesday evening will play George M. Cohan's famous "It Pays to Advertise." Both will be produced as in their original settings. Matinee performances began today and will continue for the week.

Fitting Expiring Sentiments.

To Vesputian is attributed as an expiring sentiment, "An emperor should die standing!" which seems to have appealed to two sixteenth-century English bishops—Woolton, whose last utterance is recorded as, "A bishop ought to die on his legs," and Sewell, who declared, "A bishop should die preaching."

TAUNTING JOLTS FOR KIND FOLKS

Picking Up Passengers Does Not Always Work Out as It Should.

EXPERIENCES OF MOTORISTS

Trials and Tribulations of Men Who Sought to Aid Those Not Fortunate Enough to Have Cars to Ride to Town In.

There are reasons why motorists do not pay more attention to the casual pedestrian whom they might pick up from the safety zone along the street car track and carry with them to the city center. Advice to motorists to travel with all seats filled as a means to assisting in transporting the people at all hours, and particularly at busy hours, has been heeded again and again by motorists who have all too often regretted their kindly feeling later, says Detroit Free Press. In a gathering of motorists at a club recently some incidents were related of the trials and tribulations of men who had decided to take this advice and aid those not so fortunate in having cars in which to ride at the time.

What's the Graft?

One motorist related an incident which made him hesitate about stopping to pick up a pedestrian. He said that he came to a full stop at a safety zone and asked a man standing there if he would like to ride downtown. The man turned round with a sneer and said, "What's your graft, anyway?" That man was left where he stood, with no car in sight and with his ears burning from the roasting he received within the few seconds it took for the motorist to disappear.

Another motorist told of picking up a respectable business man who seemed in a hurry as he ran down a side street to the main car line. The business man climbed in gladly, but the moment he took his seat beside the driver he turned back into that seat and played his boots squarely on the dash of the car, where he left long scratches which remained until removed by that car owner. That driver said that he had stepped for no pickup except soldiers and women and children since that time.

Car Was No Good.

Another motorist had a car in which he took much pride and which was running particularly well at the time he picked up a man. That passenger by invitation immediately started to belittle the car of the man with whom he was riding, and said that that particular make had never been any good and that the company would never be able to make a good car if in business a hundred years. The driver was one of the partners in the company manufacturing the car he drove, so held his temper, but lost no more confidence in his product by picking up critical business men without cars of their own, but with decided opinions on the subject with which they had no experience.

So it went on, and man after man of the party showed plainly by his own experience, that the dear people who do not own a motorcar care little for the opinion which the real motorcar owner may have of them after their boorish acceptance of a kindness well meant but oftentimes not repeated.

DANGER IN CRANKING AUTOS

This Is Especially So When Engine Is Not Working Properly—Little Tip Is Given.

There is always danger in cranking a machine by hand, the more especially if the engine is not working properly, as it may kick even though the spark be retarded. Sometimes it is hard work to start an engine with retarded spark—so here is a little tip: Open the throttle, but leave the spark off; turn the engine over two or three times, then turn on the spark and pull the crank upward, not downward, and you will not be in danger of breaking your arm. Club News, Keystone Auto Club.

Both Were Satisfied.

A Missouri heavy stable keeper put his hand in a mule's mouth to see how many teeth the brute had. The mule closed his mouth to see how many fingers the man had, and the curiosity of both man and mule was satisfied.

Ideals That Uplift.

We cannot reverse anything lofty without ourselves becoming exalted; we cannot reverse anything holy without ourselves becoming purer. The character of our language determines our characters.—J. H. Jowett, D. D.

CARE OF ANTISKID DEVICES

Great Harm Will Result From Their Continual Use—Leaving Them On Is Expensive.

Antiskid devices are helpful under certain conditions, but great harm will result from their continued use. Because some devices are noisy there is a temptation to fasten them tightly to the tires. When this is done the extra pressure and the flattening out of the tires causes the cross grips to cut and clog into the tire. When cross grips become worn, sharp and rough, they should be replaced. Otherwise the tread will be cut and moisture and dirt will do the rest.

Take off the antiskid devices as soon as the necessity for using them has passed. Leaving them on when they are not needed is highly expensive in tires.

LUBRICATING A SPRING SEAT

Many Car Owners Neglect to Turn Up Grease Cup Provided—Little Attention Necessary.

Many present-day cars are fitted with springs mounted on seats that oscillate. These spring seats usually have some means of lubrication, but many car owners never take the trouble simply to turn up the grease cup provided. While it is not necessary to turn the cup each day, it is advisable to give this part a little attention now and then. In cantilever suspensions the counter bearing of the spring should be well oiled. Usually this bearing operates on a small steel shaft, extending out from the frame. In some cases a tube running transversely of the frame is used, either a grease cup or an oil hole will be found.

REPAIRING OF BRAKE SHOES

When New Parts Cannot Be Obtained Excellent Substitute Found in Piece of Steel.

When brake shoes are worn, it is the usual custom to replace them with new parts, but if these new parts cannot be obtained, an excellent repair can be made by bending a piece of soft steel

to fit around the cam. This should be about 1-32 inch thick, the same width as the brake shoe, and should be bent to fit snugly over the cam. When the wheel is in place this bushing cannot drop out of position, and so there is not much danger of it coming off.

TO RETRIEVE Mired AUTOS

Device Serves as Shovel to Make Path for Stuck Wheel—Then Acts as Track for Car.

A novel device for retrieving mired cars is one which serves first as a shovel to make a path for the stuck wheel and then as a track on which the car may be run from the hole. In addition a wheel attachment is provided whereby the device may be used as a wrecking truck when one wheel is disabled. This consists of a metal trough in which are a series of tire cross chains which provide traction. One end is beveled to form a shovel edge and the other is metal capped, carrying a bearing and a wheel attachment and serving as a handle.

TROUBLE FOUND IN BATTERY

Corrosion of Terminals Decreases Power of Current for Lights and Ignition of Fuel.

If trouble develops in the battery which upon examination is found to be up to normal and yet is not delivering enough current to furnish lights and spark enough to ignite the fuel, the basic fault will very possibly be found in corrosion of the terminals. When the terminals are covered with a hard green deposit, no current can flow. Sometimes this deposit is so hard that it takes a chisel to remove it.

KEEP POULTRY HOUSES DRY

Difficult Matter When Outside is Fairly ly Racking With Moisture—Change Litter Often.

When the outside is fairly racking with moisture it is difficult to keep the inside of the poultry quarters from dampness. By changing the litter often and providing ventilation enough to carry off all the foul air, the fowls can be kept reasonably comfortable and it is a relief to know that this kind of weather cannot last always.

MATTERS BEFORE
THE SURROGATE

The will of Charles M. Harcourt of New Paltz was admitted to probate by Surrogate Gill in the surrogate's court today. The testator gives the life use of the estate to his wife, Gertrude M. Harcourt, at whose death the remainder is given equally to his son, Alfred Harcourt, and granddaughter, Magdalene E. Brooks. Mrs. Harcourt and Alfred Harcourt are appointed executors. The will was executed April 19, 1912, and witnessed by William H. Van Wageningen and John N. Vanderlyn. The value of the estate is $5,000 personal property. John N. Vanderlyn appeared for the executors.

Letters of administration on the estate of David M. DeWitt of this city were issued to his brother, Mac Donald DeWitt, of New York city. The value of the estate is $1,000 personal property. The administrator appeared in person.

In the estate of Mary E. Rowe of the town of Hurley, a petition for a judicial settlement was filed by Edgar Rowe, the administrator, and a citation issued. Senator Charles W. Walton appeared for the administrator.

Discipline Essential.

Those who escape discipline are to be pitied, but we may be sure the escape will not be for long. The order of the world provides for this without our interference. In most cases we had much better be concerned in holding our hands off or in providing distractions for the hours between these needful buffetings by the heavy hand of fate. The discipline of others, in other words, ordinarily is none of our business. We may safely and wisely leave it to parents, school masters, police, and to the hard knocks of life.

PATRIOTISM AT
K. OF C. HALL

Monthly Meeting of Fourth Degree Assembly Held Monday Night—Featured by Inspiring Patriotic Addresses and Musical Program.

The Rev. John Henry of the Clove Church, the Rev. Martin P. O'Garra of St. Joseph's Church, Roscoe Irwin, internal revenue collector, William D. Cashin, William O'Reilly, Richard McCutcheon, E. Frank Flanagan and John C. Darrow were the speakers at the monthly meeting of the Fourth Degree Assembly of the Knights of Columbus, held Monday evening at K. of C. Hall. William Dugan was the chairman. Dancing followed the meeting, which was attended by three hundred persons. Muller's orchestra played.

A musical program was rendered by Miss Catherine Dugan, Mrs. Mann, and Deputy Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy. Their selections consisted of patriotic solos. Patriotism was the keynote of all the speeches.

William Dugan in introducing Mr. Irwin, said, "Our candidate for the next governor of this state."

Mr. Irwin speaking of the war said that there are two predominant principles arrayed against each other. Everyone in this nation must accept one or the other. There is no middle ground. You are against us if not for us; the two contending forces are directly antagonistic to each other and they are contending for the mastery of the human race. On one hand is autocracy, on our side is the right of liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Father Henry made an eloquent plea in the interests of the Third Liberty Loan. He said, "If you cannot hold a rifle you can send a shot over there with a Liberty bond that will reach the German Kaiser and help to win the war."

The "Ode to the Service Flag" was effectively recited by Deputy Internal Revenue Collector John S. Darrow of Albany.

MEET HUN WARFARE
WITH LIBERTY BONDS

Funds Will Provide Best Fighting Equipment for Soldiers, Says Yale and Towne Official.

Evidence of the thorough support that is being given to the Third Liberty Loan campaign by the great industrial concerns of the Second Federal Reserve District is shown in a statement made by Joseph A. Horne, vice president of the Yale and Towne Manufacturing Company, whose plant is at Stamford, Conn. Mr. Horne said:

"We have lost many valuable young men from our plant who have gone into the trenches, the navy, the flying corps, the training camps and other fields of government service, and included among these is the president of our company, who is now a major somewhere in France, and we have been proud to see them go, glad that our men could render this service. But that pride and that gladness have been based on one thing, without which we could have felt nothing but regret and anxiety at their departure, and that thing is our absolute faith that this country will, through overwhelming support of the Third Liberty Loan and whatever loans may come after it, supply the government with ample funds to give these young men the best fighting chance it is possible for them to have.

Liberty Loans mean the best fighting equipment, the best food, the best protection from German methods of warfare, the best sanitation—in short, the best of everything that soldiers should have. As long as our men have these, as long as the American people continue to stand behind them the way they have in the past Liberty Loans, we shall feel nothing but pride and joy for our men at the front."

GUARD SOLDIERS' MORALS.

One of the uses of the proceeds of the Liberty Loan that will appeal strongly to the great mass of American people is the care and attention given to the moral welfare and protection of the American soldiers.

Hitherto with the American army and even now with some of the armies of our allies the moral welfare of the soldier was and is a matter largely ignored. In the German armies provision is even made for immorality.

It is to the glory of American arms and American national character that of the men who wear the United States uniform a high standard of conduct is expected and demanded and provided for. Kipling's "Single men in barracks" are not to find their prototypes in the American army.

General Pershing says there is no cleaner living body of men in the world than the American army in France.

Etiquette of Fish Feast.
In the Samoan Islands, when a fish feast is held, the piece de resistance must be divided up in accordance with a rigid and unvarying etiquette. The heads are assigned to the tribal orators, who are of the high nobility. The flesh just behind the gills is set apart for guests whose host of the occasion desires to honor. The pectoral fins (a particular delicacy) go to the king. The cuts across the spine just about the pectorals (the very parts we should think most desirable) are distributed among the common people. For the chiefs the tail and belly parts are reserved.

PRIVATE ASHBY
DIED ON MONDAY

At Christ Hospital, Jersey City, of Pneumonia—Was Stated for Overseas Duty When Taken Ill—A Young Man of Sterling Qualities.

PRIVATE CHARLES T. ASHBY.

Private Charles T. Ashby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Ashby of No. 18 Ponckhockie street, died Monday at the Christ Hospital in Jersey City of pneumonia, aged 23 years. Private Ashby was stated for overseas duty when taken ill and removed to the hospital.

Private Ashby left Kingston on September 29, 1917, with the Ustlar county men who left in the first contingent sent to Camp Dix where he became a member of the 310th Infantry. Later he was sent to Camp Greene, North Carolina, where he was assigned to Company A, 60th U. S. Infantry of the Fifth Division, who were later sent to Camp Merritt for transportation overseas to France. There he has been taken ill of pneumonia. The body was brought to this city and taken in charge by Stock & Cordus, and funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Private Ashby was born in Kingston and had been a resident of this city all his life. He attended School No. 4, and after leaving school he entered the employ of C. E. Powell in his box making plant on Pine Grove avenue. He was later employed in the grocery store of B. Sussan in the Strand in Ponckhockie.

He was a young man, of sterling qualities, an earnest and devoted Christian and well liked by all those with whom he came in contact and made many friends. He was a member of the Ponckhockie Union Church and assistant superintendent of the Sunday school.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Ashby, one brother, Edwin W. Ashby, who is in the service of our country at the headquarters of the 107th at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C.

The body has been taken to his late residence from which place the funeral services will be held.

Duties of the Queen Bee.

It may be interesting to some people to learn that all the work in a beehive is done by female bees. The drones, or males, live on the labors of their more industrious female companions. Moreover, there is no such thing as a king bee. The ruler of the hive is the queen, but she is a ruler in name only, being guarded and protected by the bees simply because the colony would become extinct if she did not lay eggs at a prodigious rate. It is not unusual for a good queen to produce her own weight in eggs in a single day, and she keeps this up for weeks at a time.
